Van Fleet Repeats His Korean Stand

Two Attorneys Called to Stand

New York, March 4 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee probing waterfront crime called today for testimony from two U. S. attorneys.

Myles J. Lane and Frank Parker, U. S. attorneys in New York city, were due to testify this afternoon.

A subcommittee spokesman said several other witnesses also would be called, some of them to testify about charges of payroll padding and graft at a former air force ship loading base in Jersey City, N. J.

The subcommittee heard yesterday that pier racket indictments by a federal grand jury are reported imminent in New Jersey as a result of a probe at the base.

Says UN Can Win Without Any Broadening of War

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet declared today the United Nations forces can win a military victory in Korea without necessarily broadening the war.

"That is my personal opinion," the four-star general told the House Armed Services Committee. He added he would have to discuss any details in a closed session.

Van Fleet called the present war situation of stabilized lines a "sitdown of our own choice." He said it is "not a checkmate, not even a stalemate."

Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) asked the former Korean commander "if an offensive is launched, wouldn't that be broadening the war?"

"Not necessarily," replied the general. "That's my opinion. It would not."

Spectators crowded into the big hearing room in the House office building. Many were standing.

No Public Discussion

Van Fleet asserted at the outset that he would not publicly discuss military planning in Korea.

"I can't, of course, talk about plans as a matter of policy—not my policy but yours," he said.

He was referring to a statement by Chairman Dewey Short (R.-Mo.) that the general was under no restraint in his testimony but should use his own judgment about saying nothing "to give comfort to the enemy."

Van Fleet repeated a belief he had expressed in Korea when he was retiring from his command—that the United Nations could have won a military victory in the spring of 1951.

"They were hurt badly," Van Fleet said. "In my opinion that's why they asked us to talk things over at the conference table.

Krupp Loses His Monopoly, but Not His Vast Wealth

Ex-Cannon King Will Get $47,600,000 for His Mills; Also Has $95,000,000

Bonn, Germany, March 4 (AP)—The western allies ordered Germany's fabulous Krupp industrial empire today to sell its coal, steel and iron holdings, but ex-Cannon King Alfried Krupp was left one of the richest men in Europe.

It is estimated Krupp, who emerged from a U. S. war crimes prison only two years ago, will receive $47,600,000 for the holdings he sells.

In return, the allies handed him sole control of the rest of the family property, estimated to be worth 95 million dollars.

In a personal declaration to the allies, the 44-year-old industrial magnate promised that he will not use the millions received from selling his coal, steel and iron holdings to buy back into these industries.

Worked Out Directly

The plan to break up one of Europe's greatest industrial empires was worked out directly with Krupp by the United States, Britain and France. The West German government declined to guarantee that Krupp would not return to the industries which have been the backbone of the family dynasty—steel and coal.

The allies and representatives of Krupp have worked on the plan for more than two years. After the war, the allies confiscated all the Krupp properties when young Krupp was sentenced to 12 years in prison by a U. S. war crimes tribunal on conviction of using slave labor and plundering occupied countries.

Allied trustees have controlled this industrial colossus ever since.

Into Smaller Concerns

The primary object of the allies' Krupp plan is to shear off coal, steel and iron holdings from the other Krupp properties. All the big German steel and coal companies are being broken up into smaller, competing concerns under the allied policy of eliminating "excessive concentrations of economic power."

Krupp's mighty industrial complex was a mainstay of the Nazi war effort. Krupp had 150,000 workers, produced 8,200,000 tons of coal a year and 1,800,000 tons of steel.

Lawson Improves

The condition of Robert Lawson, 17, of Nyack, who suffered a fracture of the pelvis and internal injuries, in a car-truck collision at Henry and Fair streets last Friday, was reported as "improving" at Kingston Hospital today. Muriel A. Gray, 15, of Glenford, was fatally injured in the mishap.

Relyea Requests Truck Speed Check

Streets Used by Trailers Are Specified in Resolution

Among resolutions offered by aldermen at last night's Common Council meeting was one by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th ward, asking the regulation of the speed of heavy trucks on city streets.

The resolution, referred to the council's traffic control committee, and Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, by Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, specifically mentioned the use of the Boulevard, St. James and Fair streets, as streets used by heavy trailer trucks.

The resolution also said that although Fair street from the Boulevard to Franklin street is in the 10-mile speed limit zone, not much attention is paid to the fact.

It made no mention of the re-

City Might Take Title To Project

State Authority Willing to Give Houses at No Cost, Minus Stoves, Refrigerators

Common Council action last night opened the way for the city to take over the veterans' housing project for such purposes as it might deem advisible in the future.

It also legislated to clear title on land which figures in Kingston Hospital's expansion program, authorized improvement of Florence street extension, and recessed until March 18 to act on required bonds for that project.

A request to amend the zoning laws so that the Kingston Broadcasting Corp., might build television studios, office quarters and a transmitter on a tract off the Boulevard was referred to the laws and rules committee.

A letter from Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk informed the council that the New York Housing Authority is willing to give the city, without cost, the buildings of the veterans' housing project in the Loughran park area, without the refrigerators and stoves in the buildings.

Could Be Recreational

A report by the laws and rules committee, which was adopted, suggested that the housing project area, when abandoned, could be used for recreational or other purposes.

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly informed the alderman that Kingston Hospital in 1925 acquired land from the city, which was then known as part of Jansen avenue.

During the present expansion program of the hospital, he said, it was discovered that the hospital building "encroached slightly on other adjacent lands" of the city. The adjacent lands constitute the balance of a section of Jansen avenue. Part is also occupied by the railroad.

Clear title to all lands acquired by the hospital is necessary, he said, under requirements of the state and federal governments, so that the hospital may proceed with its expansion program.

Rezoning Asked

Anna E. Bower, of 335 Boulevard, made the request for rezoning a tract including 143-155 Boulevard, and extending through to 182-216 Marius street (about six acres) for the television development.

Anna Boyer of West Hempstead, and Rose Simmons of Hempstead, were listed as co-owners.

The letter asking the zoning change said they had granted an option to a representative of the Kingston Broadcasting Corp., for purchase of the premises for use by the broadcasting company.

They had also been informed, the letter said, that the property was to be used in conjunction with another broadcasting company for television broadcasts. The request was submitted by their attorney N. LeVan Haver.

The council's finance ways and means committee said it had studied the proposal to pave and curb Florence street extension between Stephan and Shufeldt streets, and recommended that this work be done. Final action on the proposal will be taken at the recessed meeting March 18 when the aldermen are scheduled to au-

Blasts McCarthy

State Department Agrees to Release Memorandum on 2

Issue Arises First Time in New Administration; Were Rejected by Truman

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) announced today the State Department has agreed to hand a memorandum on the security files of two department employes to his Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

McCarthy had demanded the official reports, plus "the supporting documents" in the cases of Theodore Kaghan and Edmund Schechter, who worked for the department's Voice of America propaganda broadcasts.

Similar requests for congressional access to information in the files often in the past have been rejected, but this is the first time the issue has arisen squarely in the Eisenhower administration.

The issue became involved yesterday in the subcommittee's investigation of the voice, which McCarthy contends has been sabotaged.

Prominent Officials Lead Speculation in Western Minds; First Hates West

(By The Associated Press)

Western speculation on Stalin's successor centered today on three men, all deputy prime ministers. They are:

Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov—at 50, a secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.

A dark, stocky man who hates the West, he has been built up by Stalin over the years to become one of the super-architects of the new Soviet world. Born in Orenburg, a town in the Cossack country southwest of the Urals, he joined the Red army in 1919 as a propaganda official and rose rapidly. By 1924 he was secretary of the Komsomol, the Soviet youth organization. He next worked for the Communist Party's Central Committee and then became Stalin's private secretary. After Hitler invaded Russia, Stalin appointed Malenkov to Russia's five-man supreme war cabinet, where his driving energy made him one of the architects of victory. He emerged as a likely successor to Stalin when he was tapped to deliver the opening speech at last fall's big Russian Communist Party Congress.

Oversees Police, Atom

Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria—Russia's super-policeman, with supervision over the dread state secret police, and atomic development as well.

Among a group of leaders obsessed with silence and security, he is the mystery of mysteries. Not until 1938—when Stalin called him up from his post as Communist party secretary in the Georgian Republic to head the NKVD—the secret police—was his name mentioned prominently among Russia's leaders. Broad-shouldered Beria's high, balding forehead and nose glasses give him the appearance of a middle-aged, small-time manufacturer or businessman. Like Stalin, a Georgian, Beria was born at Merkheuli, a small village, on March 29, 1899. During World War 2, his tasks as secret police chief increased enormously. Since then, he has had a major hand in the expansion of communism in satellite and occupied countries through his police agents in and out of the armed forces. But recent Soviet press criticism of the security forces, stemming from the case of the nine doctors accused of plotting to kill Soviet leaders, may mean he is on shaky ground.

Central Will Discontinue Its Daily Train to Oneonta

No Public Hearing Planned Unless Protests Are Received by PSC, Feinberg Says

Hobart, March 4 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad plans to discontinue the only passenger train on its Catskill Division April 10, Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason said today.

The Delaware county Republican said Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the Public Service Commission, had confirmed that the railroad planned the curtailment in service.

The train operates between Kingston and Oneonta on a 104-mile single track. The train leaves Kingston in the morning, reaches Oneonta at noon, and returns in the afternoon.

Other communities it serves include Roxbury, Grand Gorge, Margaretville, Pine Hill and Fleischmanns.

Feinberg said no public hearing would be held on the railroad's proposal unless the commission received protests. Mason urged public protests and said halting of passenger service would be a "serious blow" to Catskill and communities, particularly in summer when resort business booms.

Mason said the railroad had given no reason for the proposed reduction in service. Mason said freight operations would not be curtailed.

Competition Rises In Paltz Voting, First in Years

Reid to Oppose Pilch in Mayoralty Contest After 2nd Caucus Is Called

For the first time in many years there will be competition at the village election in New Paltz on Tuesday, March 17, as a result of the close vote at the village caucus held last evening.

In the past nominations made at the caucus were tantamount to election since the battles for office were fought out at the caucus.

Tuesday evening in one of the largest attended caucuses ever held in the village only eight votes separated Dr. Robert Reid, present mayor of the village, from his competitor Jesse Pilch, New Paltz business man. In view of the close vote Pilch's advocates hastily called a "rump" caucus in one corner of Firemen's Hall and while the other caucus was going on proceeded to name Pilch as the Square Deal candidate. Dr. Reid will run on the People's Ticket.

Reid Polls 264

There was a total of 524 votes cast in mayoralty contest with Dr. Reid polling 264 and Pilch 256.

Following this unprecedented event, and based on the close contest the followers of Pilch immediately called a caucus and while the balloting for two trustees was in progress at the regularly called caucus, the second caucus was called. It was necessary to call the caucus last night, since under the election law the list of nominations had to be filed before midnight in order to get the candidates' name on the official ballot. Fifty names of qualified voters must appear on the nominating ballot two weeks prior to election.

Trustee Contests

In the contest for village trustees three names appeared and it was necessary to call for a second vote in order that a majority vote be recorded for a candidate to succeed Trustee Gregory Rheude who found he had two opponents. On the first ballot Robert Jansen polled 239 votes, Clifford Van Valkenburgh 182 and Trustee Rheude 90. Following the

Woman, 60, Tells Of Torture Meted Out in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., March 4 (AP)—A 90-pound widow shocked a criminal court jury yesterday with a hair-raising account of torture, starvation and fantastic indignities.

Mrs. Bessie Barksdale, 60, testified against Miss Rosalie Rice, 49, a 325-pound operator of a small furniture store here who is charged with first degree assault with intent to murder.

The slight widow said she was beaten, starved, cheated of $3,000, forced to drink "furniture turpentine" and chew on filthy rags.

Mrs. Barksdale said she was employed as a housekeeper for seven months by the defendant and was afraid to leave her. On cross-examination she admitted she often was sent on outside errands.

"But I believed she would kill me like she said she would if I tried to leave," she said. "And I kept hoping I would get back my money she made me give her."

Denies Mistreatment

Miss Rice denied any mistreatment. She said Mrs. Barkdale was not employed as her housekeeper, but had begged to be allowed to stay at her living quarters in the store.

Police testified Mrs. Barksdale's wrist was broken and her eyes, face, neck, body and legs badly bruised when they entered the living quarters in answer to complaints from neighbors.

The frail widow said the rotund woman merchant administered numerous beatings with a heavy walking cane. She partially lost her hearing from being beaten over the head with the cane, she claimed.

And on one occasion, she testi-

Condition Is Reported To Be Grave

Top Men in All Satellites Called to Moscow, Is News; Much Sadness Noted

Moscow, March 4 (AP)—The disclosure of Prime Minister Stalin's grave illness kept thousands of Russians near their radios tonight, waiting for further medical bulletins.

The original bulletin, covering the situation up to 2 a. m. today, is 17 hours old as this dispatch is written. Further bulletins have been promised, but there is no indication when they will come.

There was immediate speculation among diplomats in London that Stalin already was dead, and that the Communist party was leading up to the disclosure of that in easy stages. The east Berlin associates of Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of east Germany, reported he had flown to Moscow last night—on Moscow's orders. German sources said they understood top men in all the satellites had been called to Moscow.

Guesswork Involved

A lot of guesswork was involved, pending a final clarification from Moscow, but some western diplomats said handling of the illness announcement supported their theory that the dictator was dead. Conversely, others expressed belief no announcement would have been made at this time unless there were signs Stalin was on the mend. The announcement spoke of Stalin's "temporary withdrawal" from leadership of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party.

Radio stations are continuing to repeat the original communique. This said Stalin was stricken Sunday night with a brain stroke and that his brain condition later grew worse.

Between readings of this communique, the stations are broadcasting slow and somber instrumental and choral music.

The Council of Ministers and the Central Committee of the Communist party announced themselves as guiding the government and party, respectively. However, there is as yet no indication how leadership of the government will be affected.

Announcement Given

"Comrade J. V. Stalin had a sudden hemorrhage of the brain which affected vitally important parts of the brain, as a result of which paralysis of the right leg and right arm occurred, together with the loss of consciousness and speech," the eight attending physicians announced. They added that treatment had brought no material change in the condition of their 73-year-old patient, and "the degree of the disturbed functions of the brain has somewhat increased."

The Central Committee of the Communist party and the Soviet

President Voices Hope for Peoples

Eisenhower Says Russians Children of Same God, Father of All

Washington, March 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower expressed his sympathy to the Russian people today in commenting on the serious illness of Premier Stalin.

The President voiced hope in a statement that God will watch over the Soviet peoples "regardless of the identity of government personalities."

The text of the statement:

"At this moment in history when multitudes of Russians are anxiously concerned because of the illness of the Soviet ruler the thoughts of America go out to all the people of the USSR—the men and women, the boys and girls—in the villages, cities, farms and factories of their homeland.

Children of Same God

"They are the children of the same God who is the father of all peoples everywhere. And like all peoples, Russia's millions share our longing for a friendly and peaceful world.

"Regardless of the identity of government personalities, the prayer of us Americans continues to be that the Almighty will

Washington Sees Malenkov As Leading Job Contender

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The name of Georgi M. Malenkov led all the rest in Washington speculation on a possible successor to the gravely ill Stalin, but Russian specialists said anything could happen in the event of the premier's early death.

So much secrecy shrouds events in Moscow and obscures the small group of Kremlin personalities which directs them that persons outside have no adequate means for predicting what may happen.

Malenkov, like V. M. Molotov a deputy premier, seems to outside observers to have strengthened his position as chief claimant to Stalin's mantle in recent years. He took a particularly prominent role in last fall's Russian Communist Party Congress. He is a close associate of Stalin.

Informed persons here do not rule out, by any means, the prospect that there may be a bitter struggle for leadership among the men in the Kremlin. Nor do they rule out the chances of a purge of those whose loyalty to any successor might be questioned.

And some U. S. experts believe that Molotov, a long time leader in Soviet affairs, is ahead of Malenkov as the leading choice for a successor to Stalin.

It was also believed at least possible that a successor to Stalin already had been picked, although that would seem to be contrary to Stalin's technique for maintaining himself in absolute power.

As free world diplomats appraise the situation, Stalin has ruled during much of Communist Russia's more than three decades with an absolute, dictatorial authority—an authority not matched in any big power since the end of World War II.

Thus, according to this view, he would not likely have permitted any of those around him to get a firm, unchallengeable grasp upon the final rungs of the ladder to succession.

U. S. authorities profess no great optimism that Stalin's death would bring any great shift in Russian policy—certainly not unless there was such a bloody struggle for power as to bring with it some weakening of Kremlin authority.

Two effects upon lesser phases of U. S.-Soviet relations were noted:

1. Any meeting between Stalin and President Eisenhower, aimed at lessening tensions between the free world and communism, seemed to be ruled out.

Stalin said at Christmas time he looked favorably on such a meeting. And Eisenhower told his news conference last week he would go halfway to meet Stalin if he were convinced such talks would further the cause of world peace.

2. The departure of Charles (Chip) Bohlen to Moscow, as the new U. S. ambassador, seemed likely to be speeded. Bohlen's nomination has not yet been acted upon by the Senate, but no significant opposition to him has been voiced.

Bohlen is one of the few Amer-

Three Investigations Pushed Into Bronx Fire in Factory

New York, March 4 (AP)—Three investigations were pushed today into a Bronx fire which yesterday exploded out of control and brought death to seven persons.

The Bronx district attorney's office said last night that the fire-swept building, used as a furniture factory, lacked a certificate of occupancy for use of the lower floor for manufacturing purposes.

In addition to the prosecutor's office, probes were under way by the fire department and the Department of Housing and Buildings.

The fire swept through the Utility Products Company, taking the lives of seven employes, injuring at least 10 other persons, and trapping for a time 146 persons. Employes tried to battle the blaze themselves for 20 minutes before a passing deputy fire chief chanced to see it and turned in an alarm.

Assistant District Attorney Wilfred Waltemade said last night that the Utility Products Company had been notified almost a year ago to discontinue using the lower floor until a certificate of occupancy was granted. Waltemade said a notice of violation then had been served on the owner of the building.

Waltemade's chief, Bronx District Attorney George B. De Luca, said a thorough investigation would be made to determine whether criminal negligence played any part in the fire.

Scores of persons were questioned by Waltemade and assistant fire marshal Thomas. Washington, who later said the fire was apparently caused by acetylene torches in the hands of two iron

South Koreans Win Hill Position on Central Front

Seoul, March 4 (AP)—Valiant South Korean infantrymen regained the top of a bloody outpost hill position on the central Korean front today in a thunderous climax to 23 hours of savage close-quarter fighting with an estimated 500 Chinese Reds.

The Republic of Korea troops had pulled back from the outpost at midday and let allied warplanes turn the hill into a smoking mass of bomb craters and debris.

In late afternoon the ROKs counterattacked and forced their way back to the top of the unnamed hill southeast of Kumsong.

The Eighth Army briefing officer said the South Koreans counted 30 Chinese dead on the battlefield when the fighting ended just before dark. Another 90 Reds were estimated killed and 60 wounded. That would be a casualty toll of 180—more than one-third of the attack force.

The Reds first hit the outpost shortly after dark yesterday. Their attacks continued through the night, with the Chinese at times clambering up the snow-covered slope and fighting right in the allied bunkers and trenches.

Swift American fighter-bombers darted through the early morning mist and plastered the attacking Reds with searing napalm bombs and tons of high explosives. The warplanes continued their strikes at regular intervals throughout the day.

Allied artillery and mortar shells ripped the Red Lines, but failed to stop the dogged Chinese.

Three Investigations Pushed Into Bronx Fire in Factory

New York, March 4 (AP)—Three investigations were pushed today into a Bronx fire which yesterday exploded out of control and brought death to seven persons.

The Bronx district attorney's office said last night that the fire-swept building, used as a furniture factory, lacked a certificate of occupancy for use of the lower floor for manufacturing purposes.

In addition to the prosecutor's office, probes were under way by the fire department and the Department of Housing and Buildings.

The fire swept through the Utility Products Company, taking the lives of seven employes, injuring at least 10 other persons, and trapping for a time 146 persons. Employes tried to battle the blaze themselves for 20 minutes before a passing deputy fire chief chanced to see it and turned in an alarm.

Assistant District Attorney Wilfred Waltemade said last night that the Utility Products Company had been notified almost a year ago to discontinue using the lower floor until a certificate of occupancy was granted. Waltemade said a notice of violation then had been served on the owner of the building.

Waltemade's chief, Bronx District Attorney George B. De Luca, said a thorough investigation would be made to determine whether criminal negligence played any part in the fire.

Scores of persons were questioned by Waltemade and assistant fire marshal Thomas Washington, who later said the fire was apparently caused by acetylene torches in the hands of two iron

Blasts McCarthy

Issue Arises First Time in New Administration; Were Rejected by Truman

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) announced today the State Department has agreed to hand a memorandum on the security files of two department employes to his Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

McCarthy had demanded the official reports, plus "the supporting documents" in the cases of Theodore Kaghan and Edmund Schechter, who worked for the department's Voice of America propaganda broadcasts.

Similar requests for congressional access to information in the files often in the past have been rejected, but this is the first time the issue has arisen squarely in the Eisenhower administration.

The issue became involved yesterday in the subcommittee's investigation of the voice, which McCarthy contends has been sabotaged.

Prominent Officials Lead Speculation in Western Minds; First Hates West

(By The Associated Press)

Western speculation on Stalin's successor centered today on three men, all deputy prime ministers. They are:

Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov—at 50, a secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.

A dark, stocky man who hates the West, he has been built up by Stalin over the years to become one of the super-architects of the new Soviet world. Born in Orenburg, a town in the Cossack country southwest of the Urals, he joined the Red army in 1919 as a propaganda official and rose rapidly. By 1924 he was secretary of the Komsomol, the Soviet youth organization. He next worked for the Communist Party's Central Committee and then became Stalin's private secretary. After Hitler invaded Russia, Stalin appointed Malenkov to Russia's five-man supreme war cabinet, where his driving energy made him one of the architects of victory. He emerged as a likely successor to Stalin when he was tapped to deliver the opening speech at last fall's big Russian Communist Party Congress.

Oversees Police, Atom

Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria—Russia's super-policeman, with supervision over the dread state secret police, and atomic development as well.

Among a group of leaders obsessed with silence and security, he is the mystery of mysteries. Not until 1938—when Stalin called him up from his post as Communist party secretary in the Georgian Republic to head the NKVD—the secret police—was his name mentioned prominently among Russia's leaders. Broad-shouldered Beria's high, balding forehead and nose glasses give him the appearance of a middle-aged, small-time manufacturer or businessman. Like Stalin, a Georgian, Beria was born at Merkheuli, a small village, on March 29, 1899. During World War 2, his tasks as secret police chief increased enormously. Since then, he has had a major hand in the expansion of communism in satellite and occupied countries through his police agents in and out of the armed forces. But recent Soviet press criticism of the security forces, stemming from the case of the nine doctors accused of plotting to kill Soviet leaders, may mean he is on shaky ground.

Washington Sees Malenkov As Leading Job Contender

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The name of Georgi M. Malenkov led all the rest in Washington speculation on a possible successor to the gravely ill Stalin, but Russian specialists said anything could happen in the event of the premier's early death.

So much secrecy shrouds events in Moscow and obscures the small group of Kremlin personalities which directs them that persons outside have no adequate means for predicting what may happen.

Malenkov, like V. M. Molotov a deputy premier, seems to outside observers to have strengthened his position as chief claimant to Stalin's mantle in recent years. He took a particularly prominent role in last fall's Russian Communist Party Congress. He is a close associate of Stalin.

Informed persons here do not rule out, by any means, the prospect that there may be a bitter struggle for leadership among the men in the Kremlin. Nor do they rule out the chances of a purge of those whose loyalty to any successor might be questioned.

And some U. S. experts believe that Molotov, a long time leader in Soviet affairs, is ahead of Malenkov as the leading choice for a successor to Stalin.

It was also believed at least possible that a successor to Stalin already had been picked, although that would seem to be contrary to Stalin's technique for maintaining himself in absolute power.

As free world diplomats appraise the situation, Stalin has ruled during much of Communist Russia's more than three decades with an absolute, dictatorial authority—an authority not matched in any big power since the end of World War II.

Thus, according to this view, he would not likely have permitted any of those around him to get a firm, unchallengeable grasp upon the final rungs of the ladder to succession.

U. S. authorities profess no great optimism that Stalin's death would bring any great shift in Russian policy—certainly not unless there was such a bloody struggle for power as to bring with it some weakening of Kremlin authority.

Two effects upon lesser phases of U. S.-Soviet relations were noted:

1. Any meeting between Stalin and President Eisenhower, aimed at lessening tensions between the free world and communism, seemed to be ruled out.

Stalin said at Christmas time he looked favorably on such a meeting. And Eisenhower told his news conference last week he would go halfway to meet Stalin if he were convinced such talks would further the cause of world peace.

2. The departure of Charles (Chip) Bohlen to Moscow, as the new U. S. ambassador, seemed likely to be speeded. Bohlen's nomination has not yet been acted upon by the Senate, but no significant opposition to him has been voiced.

Bohlen is one of the few Amer-

No Public Hearing Planned Unless Protests Are Received by PSC, Feinberg Says

Hobart, March 4 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad plans to discontinue the only passenger train on its Catskill Division April 10, Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason said today.

The Delaware county Republican said Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the Public Service Commission, had confirmed that the railroad planned the curtailment in service.

The train operates between Kingston and Oneonta on a 104-mile single track. The train leaves Kingston in the morning, reaches Oneonta at noon, and returns in the afternoon.

Other communities it serves include Roxbury, Grand Gorge, Margaretville, Pine Hill and Fleischmanns.

Feinberg said no public hearing would be held on the railroad's proposal unless the commission received protests. Mason urged public protests and said halting of passenger service would be a "serious blow" to Catskill and communities, particularly in summer when resort business booms.

Mason said the railroad had given no reason for the proposed reduction in service. Mason said freight operations would not be curtailed.

Competition Rises In Paltz Voting, First in Years

Reid to Oppose Pilch in Mayoralty Contest After 2nd Caucus Is Called

For the first time in many years there will be competition at the village election in New Paltz on Tuesday, March 17, as a result of the close vote at the village caucus held last evening.

In the past nominations made at the caucus were tantamount to election since the battles for office were fought out at the caucus.

Tuesday evening in one of the largest attended caucuses ever held in the village only eight votes separated Dr. Robert Reid, present mayor of the village, from his competitor Jesse Pilch, New Paltz business man. In view of the close vote Pilch's advocates hastily called a "rump" caucus in one corner of Firemen's Hall and while the other caucus was going on proceeded to name Pilch as the Square Deal candidate. Dr. Reid will run on the People's Ticket.

Reid Polls 264

There was a total of 524 votes cast in mayoralty contest with Dr. Reid polling 264 and Pilch 256.

Following this unprecedented event, and based on the close contest the followers of Pilch immediately called a caucus and while the balloting for two trustees was in progress at the regularly called caucus, the second caucus was called. It was necessary to call the caucus last night, since under the election law the list of nominations had to be filed before midnight in order to get the candidates' name on the official ballot. Fifty names of qualified voters must appear on the nominating ballot two weeks prior to election.

Trustee Contests

In the contest for village trustees three names appeared and it was necessary to call for a second vote in order that a majority vote be recorded for a candidate to succeed Trustee Gregory Rheude who found he had two opponents. On the first ballot Robert Jansen polled 239 votes, Clifford Van Valkenburgh 182 and Trustee Rheude 90. Following the

Woman, 60, Tells Of Torture Meted Out in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., March 4 (AP)—A 90-pound widow shocked a criminal court jury yesterday with a hair-raising account of torture, starvation and fantastic indignities.

Mrs. Bessie Barksdale, 60, testified against Miss Rosalie Rice, 49, a 325-pound operator of a small furniture store here who is charged with first degree assault with intent to murder.

The slight widow said she was beaten, starved, cheated of $3,000, forced to drink "furniture turpentine" and chew on filthy rags.

Mrs. Barksdale said she was employed as a housekeeper for seven months by the defendant and was afraid to leave her. On cross-examination she admitted she often was sent on outside errands.

"But I believed she would kill me like she said she would if I tried to leave," she said. "And I kept hoping I would get back my money she made me give her."

Denies Mistreatment

Miss Rice denied any mistreatment. She said Mrs. Barkdale was not employed as her housekeeper, but had begged to be allowed to stay at her living quarters in the store.

Police testified Mrs. Barksdale's wrist was broken and her eyes, face, neck, body and legs badly bruised when they entered the living quarters in answer to complaints from neighbors.

The frail widow said the rotund woman merchant administered numerous beatings with a heavy walking cane. She partially lost her hearing from being beaten over the head with the cane, she claimed.

South Koreans Win Hill Position on Central Front

Seoul, March 4 (AP)—Valiant South Korean infantrymen regained the top of a bloody outpost hill position on the central Korean front today in a thunderous climax to 23 hours of savage close-quarter fighting with an estimated 500 Chinese Reds.

The Republic of Korea troops had pulled back from the outpost at midday and let allied warplanes turn the hill into a smoking mass of bomb craters and debris.

In late afternoon the ROKs counterattacked and forced their way back to the top of the unnamed hill southeast of Kumsong.

The Eighth Army briefing officer said the South Koreans counted 30 Chinese dead on the battlefield when the fighting ended just before dark. Another 90 Reds were estimated killed and 60 wounded. That would be a casualty toll of 180—more than one-third of the attack force.

Swift American fighter-bombers darted through the early morning mist and plastered the attacking Reds with searing napalm bombs and tons of high explosives. The warplanes continued their strikes at regular intervals throughout the day.

Allied artillery and mortar shells ripped the Red Lines, but failed to stop the dogged Chinese.

Moscow, March 4 (AP)—The disclosure of Prime Minister Stalin's grave illness kept thousands of Russians near their radios tonight, waiting for further medical bulletins.

The original bulletin, covering the situation up to 2 a. m. today, is 17 hours old as this dispatch is written. Further bulletins have been promised, but there is no indication when they will come.

There was immediate speculation among diplomats in London that Stalin already was dead, and that the Communist party was leading up to the disclosure of that in easy stages. The east Berlin associates of Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of east Germany, reported he had flown to Moscow last night—on Moscow's orders. German sources said they understood top men in all the satellites had been called to Moscow.

Guesswork Involved

A lot of guesswork was involved, pending a final clarification from Moscow, but some western diplomats said handling of the illness announcement supported their theory that the dictator was dead. Conversely, others expressed belief no announcement would have been made at this time unless there were signs Stalin was on the mend. The announcement spoke of Stalin's "temporary withdrawal" from leadership of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party.

Radio stations are continuing to repeat the original communique. This said Stalin was stricken Sunday night with a brain stroke and that his brain condition later grew worse.

Between readings of this communique, the stations are broadcasting slow and somber instrumental and choral music.

The Council of Ministers and the Central Committee of the Communist party announced themselves as guiding the government and party, respectively. However, there is as yet no indication how leadership of the government will be affected.

Announcement Given

"Comrade J. V. Stalin had a sudden hemorrhage of the brain which affected vitally important parts of the brain, as a result of which paralysis of the right leg and right arm occurred, together with the loss of consciousness and speech," the eight attending physicians announced. They added that treatment had brought no material change in the condition of their 73-year-old patient, and "the degree of the disturbed functions of the brain has somewhat increased."

President Voices Hope for Peoples

Eisenhower Says Russians Children of Same God, Father of All

Washington, March 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower expressed his sympathy to the Russian people today in commenting on the serious illness of Premier Stalin.

The President voiced hope in a statement that God will watch over the Soviet peoples "regardless of the identity of government personalities."

The text of the statement:

"At this moment in history when multitudes of Russians are anxiously concerned because of the illness of the Soviet ruler the thoughts of America go out to all the people of the USSR—the men and women, the boys and girls—in the villages, cities, farms and factories of their homeland.

Children of Same God

"They are the children of the same God who is the father of all peoples everywhere. And like all peoples, Russia's millions share our longing for a friendly and peaceful world.

"Regardless of the identity of government personalities, the prayer of us Americans continues to be that the Almighty will

Since the film began running here, 10 persons—mostly men — have fainted, and been carried out by ambulance men who have been in atendance throughout. THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It seems almost axiomatic to the Ruminator that two causes will adversely effect the widely accepted opinion that there will be no interruption in the prevailing boom for another six to 12 months.

The first cause is the very acceptance of this generalized opinion, and the second is the exhausting confusion which is a natural result of the political overturn from Eisenhower's victory. (I use the words "exhausting confusion" purposely because confusion that causes widespread uncertainty warps judgments and retards decisions.)

One does not have to read far between the lines to know that "Washington" is in a dither. Everyone is apparently rushing about like volunteers at a brush fire, trying to put out first one little conflagration before it spreads and then to stamp out another a few feet away.

You can well imagine the cloakroom talk and gossip among "the help"! Thousands of jobs already have been marked for dismissal; while thousands more may be replaced or done away with.

Suppose you have been placed at the head of a department. Suppose further that your political leanings are such that you question the judgment and abilities of former "New Dealers" and "Fair Dealers." This latter would be a perfectly natural human reaction, particularly if you had been an outright antagonist of the political era of the past 20 years (that is, if you were a realistic reactionary like, say, the Ruminator!)

Coming to the head of a department employing thousands of people who had been largely hired in the past 20 years, would you not be constantly on edge wondering what was going on down through the various steps in your organization? The government is so colossal today that there are literally thousands of what might be called sub- and junior- executives. What happens to orders and directives when they have to pass through so many hands? The Secretary of State said the other day that before a cable from abroad reaches him it may pass over 40 desks! As he remarked, as an understatement, "this is too many!"

There is nothing in the world that will cure the confusion and cross-purposes now in evidence but time.

It will take months, as we have discussed before, to reorganize the government under its "new management."

In the meantime, the confusion and uncertainty are sure to spread throughout the country as a whole. Arguments whether this or that policy is wise will become common as soon as the new President's honeymoon is over. The opposition party will soon become more vociferous. The friendly and flippant Adlai Stevenson will doubtless enjoy his contrary role when he returns from his world jaunt and tour of inspection.

These are some of the "psychological" influences that are likely to cause a slowing down in the tempo of the business boom, in the Ruminator's notion. Uncertainty is an active restrainer; it causes people to stop, look, and ponder.

Other causes of uncertainty arise from the international dilemmas. Here, too, the changeover of political parties places everything on a different basis. Former "understandings" among statesmen have to be reviewed. Public reactions to the altered viewpoints and policies have to be measured and coped with. Meetings this week between the British and American chiefs of foreign policy and finance only serve to emphasize the vast area of problems in which we are committed.

In domestic affairs there are numerous developments that will cause the yellow caution light to slow down the spending traffic—and, it is to be hoped, the borrowing traffic. Arguments pro and con concerning the fall in farm prices will inevitably start talk about other "recessionary" fears.

Contrarily, the growth of confusion and uncertainty just at this time is a wholesome and beneficial development. Readjustments now will not be hard to digest. Later they might cause severe disorders. A year or so spent now in reorganizing policies and management will be well spent and will prepare the way for a more normal era to come. Readjustments now will prevent that much-talked-about "Republican slump" you hear repeated so often.

A little calmness and commonsense seem to be all that is necessary to get through this period of confusion and uncertainty. The U.S.A. is not ready to fall apart yet!

Animal Identity Is Being Sought

The shooting a week ago of an animal in the Lake Katrine section stirred widespread interest as area hunters and sportsmen contemplated its identity.

It has been generally concluded that the animal was an in-bred police dog—a dog partly reverted to the wolf stage because of the in-breeding of its antecedents.

The animal was shot on Saturday, Feb. 21, by Percy Briody of Glasco while he was fox hunting along the range at Lake Katrine, parallelling Route 9W between that highway and the river. Possessing a bushy tail, the animal weighed an estimated 40 pounds —heavier than a fox.

Hunters discussed the possibility that the animal might be a coyote.

Sgt. F. W. Hilfrank, in charge of the Kingston state police barracks, pointed out, however, that coyotes weigh between 22 and 28 pounds and they do not have black eyes such as the animal in question. Hilfrank is one of the few persons in this area who has seen and shot coyotes, having been raised in the cattle country of Custer county, Montana.

He has also shot wolves, including a Canadian timber wolf.

After inspecting the carcass on Tuesday of this week, the sergeant said it was undoubtedly an in-bred police dog. He explained that after two or three generations of in-breeding, the dogs will go back to their wolf origin. This animal appeared to be one of these "wolf-dogs." They are detrimental to deer and other game, he warned.

Sells Is Renamed To Port Authority

Albany, March 4 (AP)—Charles H. Sells, former state public works superintendent, has been re-appointed by Gov. Dewey to a six-year term on the Port of New York Authority.

The 12-member commission builds and operates transportation facilities in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

The governors of New York and New Jersey each appoint six members to overlapping terms. Sells, a resident of Cross River in Westchester county, will serve until July 1, 1958.

His appointment was sent to the Senate yesterday for expected confirmation.

Dewey asked the Senate today for confirmation of the appointment of John R. Evans of Poughkeepsie to the Hudson River State Hospital board of visitors, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Edwin H. Rozell, also of Poughkeepsie, last Dec. 31. Evans' term would expire Dec. 31, 1958.

Dewey also sent the Senate the following re-appointments to boards of visitors:

Benson R. Frost, Rhinebeck, seven-year term, Hudson River State Hospital.

Mrs. Gertrude Ammerman, New York city, seven-year term, Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, L. I.

Faint at Sex Film

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya (AP) — Tough British jungle fighters fainted but schoolgirls were completely unmoved during showing here recently of the sex education film, "Street Corner." Since the film began running here, 10 persons—mostly men — have fainted, and been carried out by ambulance men who have been in atendance throughout. A veteran of the Malayan jungle war said: "My blood drained from my face when I saw the childbirth scene and the Caesarian operation."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It seems almost axiomatic to the Ruminator that two causes will adversely effect the widely accepted opinion that there will be no interruption in the prevailing boom for another six to 12 months.

The first cause is the very acceptance of this generalized opinion, and the second is the exhausting confusion which is a natural result of the political overturn from Eisenhower's victory. (I use the words "exhausting confusion" purposely because confusion that causes widespread uncertainty warps judgments and retards decisions.)

One does not have to read far between the lines to know that "Washington" is in a dither. Everyone is apparently rushing about like volunteers at a brush fire, trying to put out first one little conflagration before it spreads and then to stamp out another a few feet away.

You can well imagine the cloakroom talk and gossip among "the help"! Thousands of jobs already have been marked for dismissal; while thousands more may be replaced or done away with.

Suppose you have been placed at the head of a department. Suppose further that your political leanings are such that you question the judgment and abilities of former "New Dealers" and "Fair Dealers." This latter would be a perfectly natural human reaction, particularly if you had been an outright antagonist of the political era of the past 20 years (that is, if you were a realistic reactionary like, say, the Ruminator!)

Coming to the head of a department employing thousands of people who had been largely hired in the past 20 years, would you not be constantly on edge wondering what was going on down through the various steps in your organization? The government is so colossal today that there are literally thousands of what might be called sub- and junior- executives. What happens to orders and directives when they have to pass through so many hands? The Secretary of State said the other day that before a cable from abroad reaches him it may pass over 40 desks! As he remarked, as an understatement, "this is too many!"

There is nothing in the world that will cure the confusion and cross-purposes now in evidence but time.

It will take months, as we have discussed before, to reorganize the government under its "new management."

In the meantime, the confusion and uncertainty are sure to spread throughout the country as a whole. Arguments whether this or that policy is wise will become common as soon as the new President's honeymoon is over. The opposition party will soon become more vociferous. The friendly and flippant Adlai Stevenson will doubtless enjoy his contrary role when he returns from his world jaunt and tour of inspection.

These are some of the "psychological" influences that are likely to cause a slowing down in the tempo of the business boom, in the Ruminator's notion. Uncertainty is an active restrainer; it causes people to stop, look, and ponder.

Other causes of uncertainty arise from the international dilemmas. Here, too, the changeover of political parties places everything on a different basis. Former "understandings" among statesmen have to be reviewed. Public reactions to the altered viewpoints and policies have to be measured and coped with. Meetings this week between the British and American chiefs of foreign policy and finance only serve to emphasize the vast area of problems in which we are committed.

In domestic affairs there are numerous developments that will cause the yellow caution light to slow down the spending traffic—and, it is to be hoped, the borrowing traffic. Arguments pro and con concerning the fall in farm prices will inevitably start talk about other "recessionary" fears.

Contrarily, the growth of confusion and uncertainty just at this time is a wholesome and beneficial development. Readjustments now will not be hard to digest. Later they might cause severe disorders. A year or so spent now in reorganizing policies and management will be well spent and will prepare the way for a more normal era to come. Readjustments now will prevent that much-talked-about "Republican slump" you hear repeated so often.

A little calmness and commonsense seem to be all that is necessary to get through this period of confusion and uncertainty. The U.S.A. is not ready to fall apart yet!

Animal Identity Is Being Sought

The shooting a week ago of an animal in the Lake Katrine section stirred widespread interest as area hunters and sportsmen contemplated its identity.

It has been generally concluded that the animal was an in-bred police dog—a dog partly reverted to the wolf stage because of the in-breeding of its antecedents.

The animal was shot on Saturday, Feb. 21, by Percy Briody of Glasco while he was fox hunting along the range at Lake Katrine, parallelling Route 9W between that highway and the river. Possessing a bushy tail, the animal weighed an estimated 40 pounds —heavier than a fox.

Hunters discussed the possibility that the animal might be a coyote.

Sgt. F. W. Hilfrank, in charge of the Kingston state police barracks, pointed out, however, that coyotes weigh between 22 and 28 pounds and they do not have black eyes such as the animal in question. Hilfrank is one of the few persons in this area who has seen and shot coyotes, having been raised in the cattle country of Custer county, Montana.

He has also shot wolves, including a Canadian timber wolf.

After inspecting the carcass on Tuesday of this week, the sergeant said it was undoubtedly an in-bred police dog. He explained that after two or three generations of in-breeding, the dogs will go back to their wolf origin. This animal appeared to be one of these "wolf-dogs." They are detrimental to deer and other game, he warned.

Sells Is Renamed To Port Authority

Albany, March 4 (AP)—Charles H. Sells, former state public works superintendent, has been re-appointed by Gov. Dewey to a six-year term on the Port of New York Authority.

The 12-member commission builds and operates transportation facilities in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

The governors of New York and New Jersey each appoint six members to overlapping terms. Sells, a resident of Cross River in Westchester county, will serve until July 1, 1958.

His appointment was sent to the Senate yesterday for expected confirmation.

Dewey asked the Senate today for confirmation of the appointment of John R. Evans of Poughkeepsie to the Hudson River State Hospital board of visitors, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Edwin H. Rozell, also of Poughkeepsie, last Dec. 31. Evans' term would expire Dec. 31, 1958.

Dewey also sent the Senate the following re-appointments to boards of visitors:

Benson R. Frost, Rhinebeck, seven-year term, Hudson River State Hospital.

Mrs. Gertrude Ammerman, New York city, seven-year term, Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, L. I.

Industrial Leader To Address C of C Dinner March 21

Howard A. Lewis, world industrialist, of Kingston and Detroit, will be the speaker at the eighth annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce which will be held on Saturday, March 21, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Announcements are being mailed today to members.

The theme of the meeting this year will be industrial development. After hearing Lewis speak briefly at a directors luncheon a short time ago, it was unanimously decided to prevail upon him to speak at the annual banquet. It was agreed that his knowledge of the problems involved in the location of manufacturing plants and his version of the fundamental problems confronting Kingston and Ulster county, make Lewis the ideal speaker to stimulate a sound and constructive development of Kingston's industrial expansion program. He spends much of his time on business trips to all parts of the world.

Urge Large Attendance

Lewis is vice-president of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation of Detroit and is a member of the United States Council of the International Chamber of Commerce. Both Adrian Kaplan, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, and Bev C. Anderson, chairman of the banquet committee urge the attendance of chamber members, their wives and guests.

In the announcement mailed today Kaplan said, "the speaker has a message for us which will be of unusual interest and value to every chamber member and citizen of Kingston interested in area development."

Because of the importance of the topic to the region anyone interested in attending the banquet from anywhere in Ulster county is invited. Tickets may be obtained at the chamber office in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Reservations can be made by telephone or letter.

Ownership Proof

In Wyoming, livestock brands are registered with the state livestock and sanitary board in order to avoid duplication and to prove property rights. Courts there accept the brand as prima facie evidence of ownership.

Students to Present Physical Program

Boys and girls in the elementary schools of Kingston will present a physical education demonstration under the direction of Miss Stern and John Gilligan Friday, March 6 at 3:45 p. m., for children and 8 p. m. for adults at the George Washington School.

Boys will participate in a varied program including calisthenics, marching, tumbling, parallel bars, flying rings and basketball.

Girls will take part in marching, calisthenics, rhythms, volleyball and square dancing.

Worst Fog Reported

London, March 4 (AP)—The worst March fog on record strangled sea transportation around the British Isles for the third day in a row today. Blackout patches inland slowed road traffic to a crawl throughout the southern half of England. The International Airport at Shannon, Ireland—a main trans-Atlantic flight terminal—was forced to shut down. The liner Queen Mary was fogbound off Southampton with 643 passengers from New York for the second consecutive night. The air ministry, which handles government weather forecasts, held out no hope for immediate relief.

Worst Fog Reported

London, March 4 (AP)—The worst March fog on record strangled sea transportation around the British Isles for the third day in a row today. Blackout patches inland slowed road traffic to a crawl throughout the southern half of England. The International Airport at Shannon, Ireland—a main trans-Atlantic flight terminal—was forced to shut down. The liner Queen Mary was fogbound off Southampton with 643 passengers from New York for the second consecutive night. The air ministry, which handles government weather forecasts, held out no hope for immediate relief.

STALIN'S PHONY REASONABLENESS

Joseph Stalin has again been showing what he thinks the West may regard as his "reasonable" side. He had an interesting talk with a Dr. Kitchlu, of India, who had come to Moscow from the Red-sponsored "peace conference" in Vienna, to receive the Stalin Peace Prize.

Dr. Kitchlu was much impressed at his "full, frank and free" discussion with the Soviet premier. He couldn't quote Stalin, but he was able to pass on some "personal impressions" gleaned from the meeting.

The notion he got was that Stalin thought the American people — as a people — were pretty fine folk. But the United States government, ah, that's another matter.

This government of ours, whether run by Democrats or Republicans, is really in the hands of wicked capitalists who want only the profits to be made from wars. They got a taste of this largesse in two great wars, and now are thirsting for the rewards of a third.

So goes Stalin, according to Dr. Kitchlu. Spelling out this theme a little, the Indian says Stalin thinks President Eisenhower was a good military man, but, alas, he has surrounded himself with war-minded capitalists who are sure to block a decent settlement of world issues.

As for former President Truman, he wasn't a bad sort, either, except that he fell under the influence of Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and got off the track.

Those British, incidentally, have been been rather puzzling, in Stalin's view. They haven't supported Russian policy the way you'd expect. Don't they remember that the Russians saved Britain from disaster in World War II?

Well, why go further? Obviously, it's the same old Russian propaganda line. All the elements are there—the attempt to impute to America the warlike behavior that actually characterizes Russia itself, the disclaimer of any but peaceful intentions, the effort to split the U. S. from Britain and France. The whole thing coated with a glossy veneer of "sweet reasonableness."

The Russians have tried to put this line across so many times, with so many different foils, that it really becomes rather laughable.

But however humorous we regard this transparent fable, the underscoring is still tragic. Tragic because Stalin does not mean the good will he so blandly expresses. Tragic especially in this particular instance because Dr. Kitchlu, like so many Indian leaders, seems to believe Stalin does mean what he says.

We might as well face it: Stalin hasn't got a sincere bone in his body. But he's pretty good at hiding the fact from a lot of people, particularly the gullible leaders south of the Himalayas. It may take a few decades yet for all the world to wake up to the magnitude of the fraud practiced in Moscow.

MOSCOW MOVES

Russia's reaction to our new policy of positive movement against communism is counter-attack on several cold-war fronts. Red propagandists are fostering anti-Americanism in Argentina and Dictator Juan Peron is doing little to discourage it. In Europe West Germany has been warned that signing the Western Defense agreement will bring on a new blockade of Berlin.

In Arab countries Russia is wooing the people with a new policy of anti-Semitism. Friendly gestures are being made to India and to Japan. Red China has opened several ports for Japanese trade. Propaganda broadcasts directed at Japan from Red China are trying to undermine our relationship with the Japanese.

Political warfare is an involved and complicated business. We have made some recent gains but we cannot afford to rest. Keeping ahead of the Communists is a difficult and never ending task.

Cuba would like to restore bullfighting. Banned for 50 years or over since the occupation by the United States, this favorite sport of Spanish speaking peoples has apparently not lost its fascination in all this time. Now the government talks about legalizing it, having in mind perhaps that this might attract gory-minded tourists who now have to enjoy their bullfighting in Mexico.

THE PMA

The Production and Marketing Administration (PMA) of the Department of Agriculture has 106,000 employes (including per diem committeemen), who are in every state and every county and form a grid of political power which seeks to dwarf a Secretary of Agriculture to its will. Many members of Congress find that these government employes constitute a pressure group whose policies may be and often are different from those of the department which pays them either a salary or a per diem fee.

The PMA is a child of the AAA and while there may be some slight difference of complexion, the philosophic background is the same, namely, a socialization of agriculture by the process of dependence upon government aids and subsidies. While the AAA set up controls over the agricultural process, its object was to make the farmer a controlled citizen. To understand something of this institution, it is necessary to go back into its genealogy.

The AAA was the agency of government which Harold Ware, in 1934, hit upon as the best unit to use as a training base for infiltration into government. Harold Ware was the son of Mother Bloor, a leader of the American Communist Party. Of colonial stock, he had early become interested in the Russian Revolution and was recruited by Lenin to teach the Russians all about mechanized agriculture. He devoted about 10 years to this Russian activity, setting up the large, communal farms all owned by the Russian government, and using tractors and other agricultural machinery to which the Russians were not accustomed. About $75,000 was raised by the American Friends of Soviet Russia and the newly formed American Federated Russian Famine Relief Committee for this purpose.

In 1934, shortly after the United States had recognized Soviet Russia, which had agreed not to interfere in our lives, Harold Ware, in the United States, organized his cell consisting mostly of Harvard Law School graduates, including Alger Hiss, to infiltrate high positions of government. To train them in methods and techniques, he used the AAA.

Such persons as Alger Hiss, Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, Henry H. Collins, Jr., John Abt were in this group. Whittaker Chambers says, in "Witness," that there must have been 60 or 70 persons in this cell, as it developed, and that they were all dues-paying members of the Communist Party. He says that Henry H. Collins, Jr., of a distinguished Philadelphia manufacturing family, was treasurer of the Harold Ware cell and was actually a recruiting agent for the Soviet apparatus.

After being trained in the AAA, many of the abler ones moved into other departments of government where they made notable public careers and served their master, Stalin, ably and adequately. However, they left behind enough of their own people who adhered to their Socialistic philosophy in AAA to have given that agency a purpose and a bad name. Eventually, the AAA became the PMA, which is not only an agency of government but a political machine. The size of PMA is to be gauged by the fact that the usual employes of the Department of Agriculture amount to only 70,000.

These PMA employes mostly work at the grass roots level, where they can affect the careers of members of Congress. It is therefore possible for them, if they are so minded, to bring influences to bear which may strengthen or harm a Secretary of Agriculture who has little control over them. The PMA is a department within a department, an empire of officeholders built up into an enormity for political advantage.

The PMA ought to be abolished. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will find that mere reorganization or pruning for economy reasons will not serve. It would be possible for the FBI to check the names for loyalty, but such a task, involving 106,000 individuals, would consume the full manpower of that agency for a year or more, considering what else they have to do. The cost would be enormous. It seems to me that it would cost less and be more effective to abolish the PMA, distributing its useful functions to other agencies in the Department of Agriculture.

At any rate, something needs to be done about this bureaucratic behemoth, and obviously unless it is done by the Administration, it will be accomplished by the investigative process of a Congressional committee.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAPH READINGS

In examining recruits for military service or for life insurance, the examining physician may find the heart beating very rapidly. He may suggest that the patient lie or sit down for a few minutes and read a paper or magazine. In most cases, the heart will be slower or may be down to a normal rate. When goiter is present, the heart is always rapid.

Similarly, with blood pressure, an excited or anxious individual may have such a high systolic pressure that the physician advises examination a few days later at an earlier hour of the day. In many cases, the blood pressure is down 40 points or more, well within normal limits.

For a number of years now, physicians and heart specialists have been accepting the electrocardiograph readings as conclusive evidence as to the condition of the heart. It would now appear that just as nervousness or emotional disturbances can affect the heart rate and the blood pressure, they can likewise affect the electrocardiogram as depicted by the electrocardiograph.

In the American Heart Journal, Drs. Heinz Magendantz and Joseph Shortsleeve (Boston) state that when taking routine electrocardiograms they noted occasional changes in the rhythm in patients without obvious heart disease. After careful examination of the heart and blood vessels failed to show any heart disorder, it seemed possible that anxiety while taking the electrocardiogram was repeated the next day after reassurance that there was no heart disease present and after 15 minutes of rest.

Surprisingly, often this simple arrangement led to a reversal of the rhythm. In 22 such patients, the observed electrocardiograph changes, although slight, were definite enough to make the recordings abnormal or borderline." The exact mechanism behind these changes in anxiety and related functional (not organic) disorder is unknown.

Further, in cases of tachycardia (rapid heart beat), the electrocardiograph changes often disappeared under rest and reassurance despite the fact that the heart rate continued rapid.

Because of the effects of anxiety on the electrocardiograph readings, Dr. Magendantz and Shortsleeve state that in such cases these readings should be repeated after reassurance and 15 minutes of rest. If the changes are thereby reversed, anxiety should be suspected.

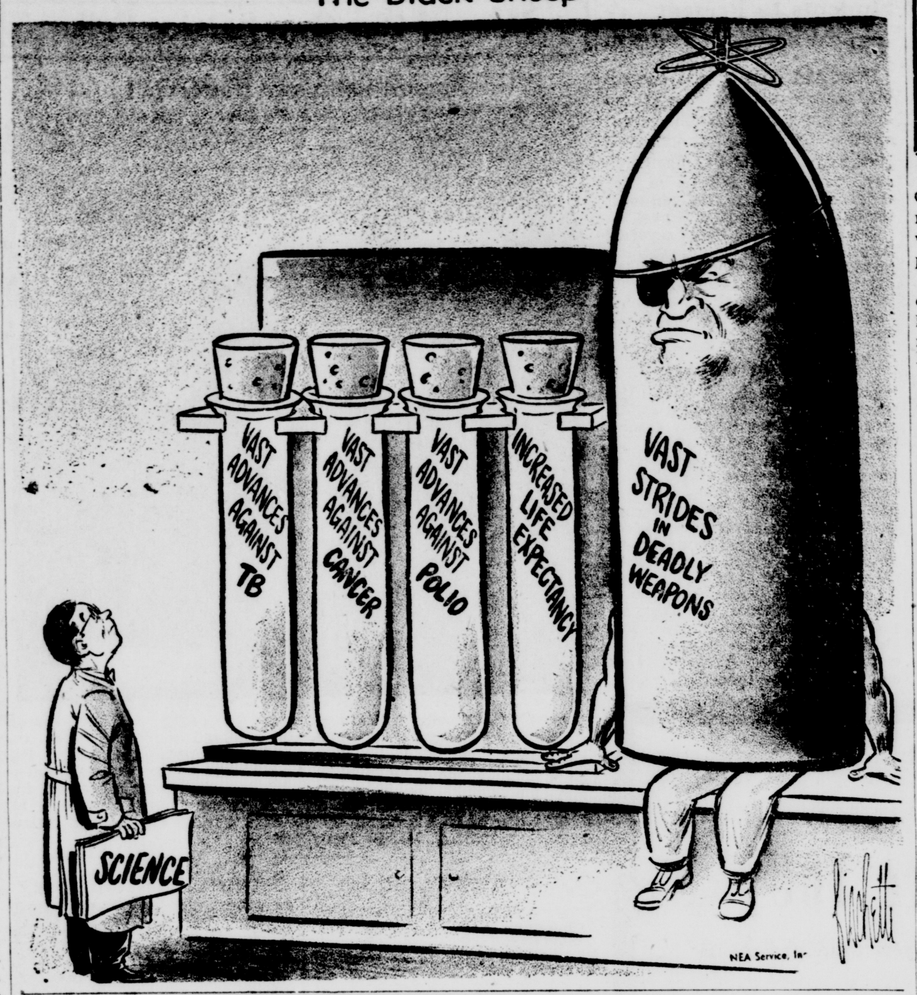
The Black Sheep



Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Department of Justice is sometimes referred to as the biggest law firm in the world. With 1100 lawyers in Washington and another 500 scattered around the country in the 94 U. S. district attorneys' offices, no other law office can come close to it for size.

Since new Attorney General Herbert Brownell took over as head of the firm, he has been trying to get his sprawling institution organized on a law-office basis. Aside from his five terms in the New York legislature and time off for managing the Eisenhower and Dewey political campaigns, all of the new AG's experience has been in a big New York law firm. So that has set his habits of work.

Nearly every day at lunch, Mr. Brownell meets with his new team of top aides. They include Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, 39; H. Brian Holland, 49, head of the tax division; Warren Olney, 49, head of criminal division; J. Lee Rankin, 46, head of the new executive adjudication division, handling other government agencies' cases; Warren E. Burger, 46, head of the civil division, formerly known as the claims division. Mr. Brownell himself is only 49. But these young men are the senior partners of the new firm.

Their business at lunch is to go over new cases, decide what to do about them and shape up the new legal policies for the new administration. They are having their troubles. They want to reorganize the Department of Justice, end the slipshod way of handling the government's legal business which characterized previous administrations, and tighten up its operations.

Good Legal Talent Hard to Find

One of their principal difficulties is getting good legal talent. At this writing the jobs of solicitor general and the assistant attorney generalships in charge of antitrust, alien property and lands divisions are still vacant, though one or more of them may be filled before this gets in print.

In addition to these top jobs to head up the principal divisions of the Department of Justice, there is a need for some 50 or more first-class lawyers to head various subdivisions and to handle the government's more important cases.

To say that the new administration does not completely trust the holdovers from the Truman administration, in spite of their civil service status, is to understate the case.

Truman's last attorney general, James P. McGranery, left behind him a list of 100 lawyers in the department whom he thought should be fired, but whom he couldn't get rid of because of political pressure. This is cited as an example of the advantages of changes of party in power every so often, just to clean out the deadwood.

In addition to these old-timers, Donald Dawson, President Truman's assistant in charge of personnel, had placed a dozen or more cronies in the Department of Justice during the last 20 days of the Democratic administration. One of them was found to have been certified into civil service without an examination. Another was found to have 81 traffic violations on his record. Such people are being quietly urged to resign and go, without publicity.

Broom to Sweep Out Poor DA's

The housecleaning is to be carried over into the offices of the 94 U. S. district attorneys. Former Attorney General McGranery's order that the $7800- to $11,040-a-year DA's would have to work full time for the government and drop their private practice after next Jan. 1, is being moved up to become effective immediately.

This will probably mean a request to Congress for a pay raise for DA's and their top assistants. The feeling is that it will take more money to get better men.

In the past it has sometimes been difficult for Washington to get in touch with DA's out on private cases. But the good DA's now in office will be retained if they want to stay on. Others are expected to be replaced as better men are found.

Recommendations for these appointments will be sought through the U. S. senators under the patronage system now being set up by the Republican administration. But the attorney general is expected to retain the right to reject nominees not considered well qualified.

The rejection of any senatorial selections for any of these better Department of Justice jobs is expected to lead to some tough confirmation fights. Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi has already served notice he will oppose the appointment of any one from his state who does not meet with his approval.

Bradley Statement at Swank Club Seems to Have Been Wrong Speech, Wrong Place

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 4—General Omar Bradley seems to have made the wrong speech at the wrong time and in the wrong place.

As chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, it will be presumed that he has just spoken for the top military staff of the government. But that isn't true.

As the top-ranking military chief, it will be presumed that he wouldn't make a speech outlining what can or cannot be done in Korea without first getting approval for his address from the civilian side of the administration. But this isn't true, either.

The general, in his opening sentence of a long, prepared speech issued by the Department of Defense here, states frankly that what he has to say "on Korea is only my personal viewpoint and from a strictly military viewpoint." Then he proceeds to outline to a "round table" at the swanky and exclusive Everglades Club at Palm Beach, Florida—a strange place to make an important military pronouncement—the four courses of action that can be taken by the United States.

Although General Bradley insists at the end of his speech that, "as a member of the joint chiefs of staff," he is "recommending neither for nor against any of these actions," he nevertheless evaluated one of the four courses and showed his plain opposition to it.

This is a curious business. The Russian Communist high command and the Politburo are doubtless anxious to know, as guidance to their "cold war" moves, just how far they can go in harassing the free nations of the world, particularly the United States. It seems strange that the man who holds the title of chairman of the joint chiefs of staff would, without consulting his colleagues on the joint chiefs or the secretary of state, proceed to give his person attitude toward policies that can only be laid down by the President and the secretary of state after consultation with the National Security Council.

Any idea that the Bradley speech was deliberately "planned" by the administration can be dispelled because one of the cardinal points in the new psychological warfare approach is not to tell Soviet Russian exactly what America intends to do.

It seems odd that the speech was delivered on the eve of the arrival in Washington of General Van Fleet, who says bluntly that he thinks a United Nations offensive could push the Communists in Korea to the Yalu river. General Bradley made a speech, too, on the eve of General MacArthur's first appearance before Congress, which was believed to have been designed to anticipate and contradict the MacArthur viewpoint ahead of time.

What seems strange, too, is that a man who speaks "from a strictly military viewpoint," as General Bradley claims he is doing, doesn't say what American military power can really do in Korea. Also, he discusses various points in world policy and diplomatic commitments in Europe which are certainly not in his province. In describing, for instance, what he calls the "fourth course of action," he says:

"It involves taking any one, or any combination, of military steps open to us in order to get a decision in Korea even while we realize that it might eventually involve us in an all-out war with Communist China. We must realize that broadening the war in this way might pin down the bulk of our military power in the continent of Asia, and could eventually develop into World War 3.

"We would have to assess the risk with each step taken. We would have to be prepared for countermeasures the Communists could take and the countermeasures that eventually the Soviet Union might take because of the Sino-Russian treaty.

"Preliminary to this course of action, it would seem to me that the United Nations, and especially the United States, would have to make long-term foreign policy decisions on future relations in the Far East."

If that isn't an adverse recommendation against one of the four courses of action, then the words of General Bradley don't mean what they say. It is surprising that the general hands the Moscow government on a platter a defensive argument by appearing to recognize the validity of the Sino-Russian treaty. This pact has no standing whatever in the face of the United Nations resolution of 1950, which declared Communist China an aggressor and called on Soviet Russia, as well as all other member nations, to refrain from aiding any aggressor in the Korean war.

General Bradley is a great soldier and a fine likable personality, but he has a Maginot-line type of mind. He can see World War 3 only in terms of a march across Europe—which, of course, will be precipitated some day if the allies allow themselves first to be driven out of Asia. Also, when he says that "broadened war" in the Far East "might pin down the bulk of our military power on the continent of Asia," he seems to overlook the fact that a considerable portion of the Soviet military power would be pinned down there, too, and that Russia's air power would be divided. For the allies would seek to smash from the air the single thin railroad line across Siberia. After this vital supply line to China was destroyed, the war in the Far East would be over. Instead of defeatism and frustration, other military viewpoints are being expressed here by top military men—and they don't agree with General Bradley, either.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Arizona is a relatively small state in population and industry, but Barry Goldwater, our new senator, a Republican, observed a few days ago that we had 16,000 employes of the federal government in our midst and I observe in the Phoenix telephone book that there is just about one full page of listings of federal bureaus of one kind and another. Senator Goldwater said it would not be easy to cut down the load of federal employes because most of them are protected by civil service, which, roughly speaking, makes it impossible for us taxpayers to get them off our backs except by abolishing their jobs. An AP dispatch from Washington on the same subject said the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee had found that the Democrats had abused the civil service system by "blanketing thousands of jobs into it in the last seven years."

An organization of civil service employes recently wrote me as much in sorrow as in anger to remonstrate against an observation of mine that the civil service had become a monstrous thing, protecting countless useless employes in artificial jobs under conditions which gave them a first lien on our income taxes practically for life. The reactions of the civil service to this statement of indisputable fact were very abusive in some cases, but I have learned that if one is not too sensitive it is all to the good to poke up the animals. It stimulates discussion and you find out things.

One fact which I have established beyond challenge is that these parasites on the living body of the best element of our nation, meaning the people who pay the taxes as distinguished from those who devour them, hold themselves to be much more precious and deserving than we are. They insist on special pension systems far more generous than the old age pensions and the old age assistance doles which we producers of taxes are offered and compelled to buy. Judges, district attorneys, congressmen, clerks and a thousand varieties and grades of sedentary bureaucrats are counting the years or months until they will be able to claim their pensions, retire and take new jobs out of the civil service or just go to Florida or San Diego and vegetate. To be sure, they pay varying proportions toward these pensions but it is equally sure that we producers of taxes, again distinguished from the consumers of taxes, also pay a share.

Certainly in sense and fairness, the parasites of the civil service should not receive at our expense pensions bigger than those provided for ourselves in Social Security and old age assistance. But they are hysterical with rage when you suggest that we who have worked in private industry or on our own as doctors, lawyers and so forth, and provided the money for their wages all through the years, deserve pensions at least as big as theirs. Or, put a better way, that if the Social Security rate is good enough for us, it ought to be for them.

I must soften the general description of the public employes as parasites by acknowledgment that many of them are as decent as any similar number of tax-producers. There is a disposition among their trade journals to depict them as self-sacrificing patriots who leave us in their debt and that, of course, is incorrect. But some of them are, as I say, capable workers and reasonably industrious. This acknowledgment being made, however, we must return to the fact that the whole horde of them are fastened on us like ticks in the hide of a brute. We have got to find some way of getting them off and it seems that the method will have to be harsh because they have been granted many advantages over the rest of us which they do not deserve. We have got to even things up some way.

Senator Olin D. Johnston, D, of South Carolina, followed the route that I covered in Europe last year when I found disgraceful waste among the leeches of the Hicog and the State Department. Johnston is the chairman of the Senate Committee on post office and civil service. He said his estimate that at least 100,000 of our overseas employees could be done without was "conservative." He said the conditions "provide the basis for a serious indictment of the Civil Service Commission," but the burden of his complex report is that variations of pay, expenses, bonuses and other money between one bureau and another cause jealousy among those on the short end of the stick. His proposition seems to be that the least should be raised to the highest level rather than the reverse.

I doubt that anybody knows how many civil service employes there are, all told. But the federal civil service contains more than 2,200,000 jobs and then there are the many state and municipal civil services on top of that appalling load. Some of them are able to maintain continuity of "service" and of the benefits thereof through legal ingenuities when they go from a state to a federal payroll and back again.

I have made diligent efforts but I have no inkling as to the number of employes in the Central

STALIN'S PHONY REASONABLENESS

Joseph Stalin has again been showing what he thinks the West may regard as his "reasonable" side. He had an interesting talk with a Dr. Kitchlu, of India, who had come to Moscow from the Red-sponsored "peace conference" in Vienna, to receive the Stalin Peace Prize.

Dr. Kitchlu was much impressed at his "full, frank and free" discussion with the Soviet premier. He couldn't quote Stalin, but he was able to pass on some "personal impressions" gleaned from the meeting.

The notion he got was that Stalin thought the American people — as a people — were pretty fine folk. But the United States government, ah, that's another matter.

This government of ours, whether run by Democrats or Republicans, is really in the hands of wicked capitalists who want only the profits to be made from wars. They got a taste of this largesse in two great wars, and now are thirsting for the rewards of a third.

So goes Stalin, according to Dr. Kitchlu. Spelling out this theme a little, the Indian says Stalin thinks President Eisenhower was a good military man, but, alas, he has surrounded himself with war-minded capitalists who are sure to block a decent settlement of world issues.

As for former President Truman, he wasn't a bad sort, either, except that he fell under the influence of Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and got off the track.

Those British, incidentally, have been rather puzzling, in Stalin's view. They haven't supported Russian policy the way you'd expect. Don't they remember that the Russians saved Britain from disaster in World War II?

Well, why go further? Obviously, it's the same old Russian propaganda line. All the elements are there—the attempt to impute to America the warlike behavior that actually characterizes Russia itself, the disclaimer of any but peaceful intentions, the effort to split the U. S. from Britain and France. The whole thing coated with a glossy veneer of "sweet reasonableness."

The Russians have tried to put this line across so many times, with so many different foils, that it really becomes rather laughable.

But however humorous we regard this transparent fable, the underscoring is still tragic. Tragic because Stalin does not mean the good will he so blandly expresses. Tragic especially in this particular instance because Dr. Kitchlu, like so many Indian leaders, seems to believe Stalin does mean what he says.

We might as well face it: Stalin hasn't got a sincere bone in his body. But he's pretty good at hiding the fact from a lot of people, particularly the gullible leaders south of the Himalayas. It may take a few decades yet for all the world to wake up to the magnitude of the fraud practiced in Moscow.

MOSCOW MOVES

Russia's reaction to our new policy of positive movement against communism is counter-attack on several cold-war fronts. Red propagandists are fostering anti-Americanism in Argentina and Dictator Juan Peron is doing little to discourage it. In Europe West Germany has been warned that signing the Western Defense agreement will bring on a new blockade of Berlin.

In Arab countries Russia is wooing the people with a new policy of anti-Semitism. Friendly gestures are being made to India and to Japan. Red China has opened several ports for Japanese trade. Propaganda broadcasts directed at Japan from Red China are trying to undermine our relationship with the Japanese.

Political warfare is an involved and complicated business. We have made some recent gains but we cannot afford to rest. Keeping ahead of the Communists is a difficult and never ending task.

Cuba would like to restore bullfighting. Banned for 50 years or over since the occupation by the United States, this favorite sport of Spanish speaking peoples has apparently not lost its fascination in all this time. Now the government talks about legalizing it, having in mind perhaps that this might attract gory-minded tourists who now have to enjoy their bullfighting in Mexico.

THE PMA

The Production and Marketing Administration (PMA) of the Department of Agriculture has 106,000 employes (including per diem committeemen), who are in every state and every county and form a grid of political power which seeks to dwarf a Secretary of Agriculture to its will. Many members of Congress find that these government employes constitute a pressure group whose policies may be and often are different from those of the department which pays them either a salary or a per diem fee.

The PMA is a child of the AAA and while there may be some slight difference of complexion, the philosophic background is the same, namely, a socialization of agriculture by the process of dependence upon government aids and subsidies. While the AAA set up controls over the agricultural process, its object was to make the farmer a controlled citizen. To understand something of this institution, it is necessary to go back into its genealogy.

The AAA was the agency of government which Harold Ware, in 1934, hit upon as the best unit to use as a training base for infiltration into government. Harold Ware was the son of Mother Bloor, a leader of the American Communist Party. Of colonial stock, he had early become interested in the Russian Revolution and was recruited by Lenin to teach the Russians all about mechanized agriculture. He devoted about 10 years to this Russian activity, setting up the large, communal farms all owned by the Russian government, and using tractors and other agricultural machinery to which the Russians were not accustomed. About $75,000 was raised by the American Friends of Soviet Russia and the newly formed American Federated Russian Famine Relief Committee for this purpose.

In 1934, shortly after the United States had recognized Soviet Russia, which had agreed not to interfere in our lives, Harold Ware, in the United States, organized his cell consisting mostly of Harvard Law School graduates, including Alger Hiss, to infiltrate high positions of government. To train them in methods and techniques, he used the AAA.

Such persons as Alger Hiss, Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, Henry H. Collins, Jr., John Abt were in this group. Whittaker Chambers says, in "Witness," that there must have been 60 or 70 persons in this cell, as it developed, and that they were all dues-paying members of the Communist Party. He says that Henry H. Collins, Jr., of a distinguished Philadelphia manufacturing family, was treasurer of the Harold Ware cell and was actually a recruiting agent for the Soviet apparatus.

After being trained in the AAA, many of the abler ones moved into other departments of government where they made notable public careers and served their master, Stalin, ably and adequately. However, they left behind enough of their own people who adhered to their Socialistic philosophy in AAA to have given that agency a purpose and a bad name. Eventually, the AAA became the PMA, which is not only an agency of government but a political machine. The size of PMA is to be gauged by the fact that the usual employes of the Department of Agriculture amount to only 70,000.

These PMA employes mostly work at the grass roots level, where they can affect the careers of members of Congress. It is therefore possible for them, if they are so minded, to bring influences to bear which may strengthen or harm a Secretary of Agriculture who has little control over them. The PMA is a department within a department, an empire of officeholders built up into an enormity for political advantage.

The PMA ought to be abolished. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will find that mere reorganization or pruning for economy reasons will not serve. It would be possible for the FBI to check the names for loyalty, but such a task, involving 106,000 individuals, would consume the full manpower of that agency for a year or more, considering what else they have to do. The cost would be enormous. It seems to me that it would cost less and be more effective to abolish the PMA, distributing its useful functions to other agencies in the Department of Agriculture.

At any rate, something needs to be done about this bureaucratic behemoth, and obviously unless it is done by the Administration, it will be accomplished by the investigative process of a Congressional committee.

That Body of Yours

ELECTROCARDIOGRAPH READINGS

In examining recruits for military service or for life insurance, the examining physician may find the heart beating very rapidly. He may suggest that the patient lie or sit down for a few minutes and read a paper or magazine. In most cases, the heart will be slower or may be down to a normal rate. When goiter is present, the heart is always rapid.

Similarly, with blood pressure, an excited or anxious individual may have such a high systolic pressure that the physician advises examination a few days later at an earlier hour of the day. In many cases, the blood pressure is down 40 points or more, well within normal limits.

For a number of years now, physicians and heart specialists have been accepting the electrocardiograph readings as conclusive evidence as to the condition of the heart. It would now appear that just as nervousness or emotional disturbances can affect the heart rate and the blood pressure, they can likewise affect the electrocardiogram as depicted by the electrocardiograph.

In the American Heart Journal, Drs. Heinz Magendantz and Joseph Shortsleeve (Boston) state that when taking routine electrocardiograms they noted occasional changes in the rhythm in patients without obvious heart disease. After careful examination of the heart and blood vessels failed to show any heart disorder, it seemed possible that anxiety while taking the electrocardiogram was repeated the next day after reassurance that there was no heart disease present and after 15 minutes of rest.

Surprisingly, often this simple arrangement led to a reversal of the rhythm. In 22 such patients, the observed electrocardiograph changes, although slight, were definite enough to make the recordings abnormal or borderline." The exact mechanism behind these changes in anxiety and related functional (not organic) disorder is unknown.

Further, in cases of tachycardia (rapid heart beat), the electrocardiograph changes often disappeared under rest and reassurance despite the fact that the heart rate continued rapid.

Because of the effects of anxiety on the electrocardiograph readings, Dr. Magendantz and Shortsleeve state that in such cases these readings should be repeated after reassurance and 15 minutes of rest. If the changes are thereby reversed, anxiety should be suspected.

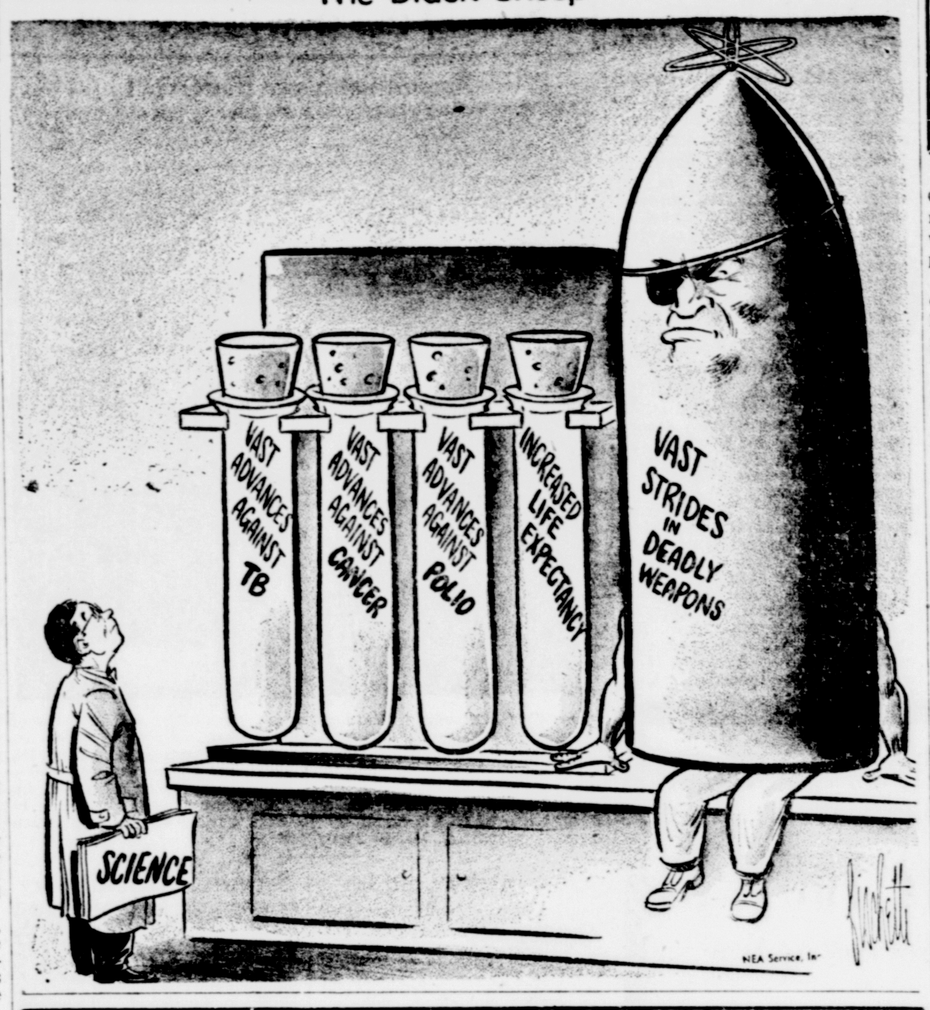
The Black Sheep



Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Department of Justice is sometimes referred to as the biggest law firm in the world. With 1100 lawyers in Washington and another 500 scattered around the country in the 94 U. S. district attorneys' offices, no other law office can come close to it for size.

Since new Attorney General Herbert Brownell took over as head of the firm, he has been trying to get his sprawling institution organized on a law-office basis. Aside from his five terms in the New York legislature and time off for managing the Eisenhower and Dewey political campaigns, all of the new AG's experience has been in a big New York law firm. So that has set his habits of work.

Nearly every day at lunch, Mr. Brownell meets with his new team of top aides. They include Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, 39; H. Brian Holland, 49, head of the tax division; Warren Olney, 49, head of criminal division; J. Lee Rankin, 46, head of the new executive adjudication division, handling other government agencies' cases; Warren E. Burger, 46, head of the civil division, formerly known as the claims division. Mr. Brownell himself is only 49. But these young men are the senior partners of the new firm.

Their business at lunch is to go over new cases, decide what to do about them and shape up the new legal policies for the new administration. They are having their troubles. They want to reorganize the Department of Justice, end the slipshod way of handling the government's legal business which characterized previous administrations, and tighten up its operations.

Good Legal Talent Hard to Find

One of their principal difficulties is getting good legal talent. At this writing the jobs of solicitor general and the assistant attorney generalships in charge of antitrust, alien property and lands divisions are still vacant, though one or more of them may be filled before this gets in print.

In addition to these top jobs to head up the principal divisions of the Department of Justice, there is a need for some 50 or more first-class lawyers to head various subdivisions and to handle the government's more important cases.

To say that the new administration does not completely trust the holdovers from the Truman administration, in spite of their civil service status, is to understate the case.

Truman's last attorney general, James P. McGranery, left behind him a list of 100 lawyers in the department whom he thought should be fired, but whom he couldn't get rid of because of political pressure. This is cited as an example of the advantages of changes of party in power every so often, just to clean out the deadwood.

In addition to these old-timers, Donald Dawson, President Truman's assistant in charge of personnel, had placed a dozen or more cronies in the Department of Justice during the last 20 days of the Democratic administration. One of them was found to have been certified into civil service without an examination. Another was found to have 81 traffic violations on his record. Such people are being quietly urged to resign and go, without publicity.

Broom to Sweep Out Poor DA's

The housecleaning is to be carried over into the offices of the 94 U. S. district attorneys. Former Attorney General McGranery's order that the $7800- to $11,040-a-year DA's would have to work full time for the government and drop their private practice after next Jan. 1, is being moved up to become effective immediately.

This will probably mean a request to Congress for a pay raise for DA's and their top assistants. The feeling is that it will take more money to get better men.

In the past it has sometimes been difficult for Washington to get in touch with DA's out on private cases. But the good DA's now in office will be retained if they want to stay on. Others are expected to be replaced as better men are found.

Recommendations for these appointments will be sought through the U. S. senators under the patronage system now being set up by the Republican administration. But the attorney general is expected to retain the right to reject nominees not considered well qualified.

The rejection of any senatorial selections for any of these better Department of Justice jobs is expected to lead to some tough confirmation fights. Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi has already served notice he will oppose the appointment of any one from his state who does not meet with his approval.

Bradley Statement at Swank Club Seems to Have Been Wrong Speech, Wrong Place

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 4—General Omar Bradley seems to have made the wrong speech at the wrong time and in the wrong place.

As chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, it will be presumed that he has just spoken for the top military staff of the government. But that isn't true.

As the top-ranking military chief, it will be presumed that he wouldn't make a speech outlining what can or cannot be done in Korea without first getting approval for his address from the civilian side of the administration. But this isn't true, either.

The general, in his opening sentence of a long, prepared speech issued by the Department of Defense here, states frankly that what he has to say "on Korea is only my personal viewpoint and from a strictly military viewpoint." Then he proceeds to outline to a "round table" at the swanky and exclusive Everglades Club at Palm Beach, Florida—a strange place to make an important military pronouncement—the four courses of action that can be taken by the United States.

Although General Bradley insists at the end of his speech that, "as a member of the joint chiefs of staff," he is "recommending neither for nor against any of these actions," he nevertheless evaluated one of the four courses and showed his plain opposition to it.

This is a curious business. The Russian Communist high command and the Politburo are doubtless anxious to know, as guidance to their "cold war" moves, just how far they can go in harassing the free nations of the world, particularly the United States. It seems strange that the man who holds the title of chairman of the joint chiefs of staff would, without consulting his colleagues on the joint chiefs or the secretary of state, proceed to give his person attitude toward policies that can only be laid down by the President and the secretary of state after consultation with the National Security Council.

Any idea that the Bradley speech was deliberately "planned" by the administration can be dispelled because one of the cardinal points in the new psychological warfare approach is not to tell Soviet Russian exactly what America intends to do.

It seems odd that the speech was delivered on the eve of the arrival in Washington of General Van Fleet, who says bluntly that he thinks a United Nations offensive could push the Communists in Korea to the Yalu river. General Bradley made a speech, too, on the eve of General MacArthur's first appearance before Congress, which was believed to have been designed to anticipate and contradict the MacArthur viewpoint ahead of time.

What seems strange, too, is that a man who speaks "from a strictly military viewpoint," as General Bradley claims he is doing, doesn't say what American military power can really do in Korea. Also, he discusses various points in world policy and diplomatic commitments in Europe which are certainly not in his province. In describing, for instance, what he calls the "fourth course of action," he says:

"It involves taking any one, or any combination, of military steps open to us in order to get a decision in Korea even while we realize that it might eventually involve us in an all-out war with Communist China. We must realize that broadening the war in this way might pin down the bulk of our military power in the continent of Asia, and could eventually develop into World War 3.

"We would have to assess the risk with each step taken. We would have to be prepared for countermeasures the Communists could take and the countermeasures that eventually the Soviet Union might take because of the Sino-Russian treaty.

"Preliminary to this course of action, it would seem to me that the United Nations, and especially the United States, would have to make long-term foreign policy decisions on future relations in the Far East."

If that isn't an adverse recommendation against one of the four courses of action, then the words of General Bradley don't mean what they say. It is surprising that the general hands the Moscow government on a platter a defensive argument by appearing to recognize the validity of the Sino-Russian treaty. This pact has no standing whatever in the face of the United Nations resolution of 1950, which declared Communist China an aggressor and called on Soviet Russia, as well as all other member nations, to refrain from aiding any aggressor in the Korean war.

General Bradley is a great soldier and a fine likable personality, but he has a Maginot-line type of mind. He can see World War 3 only in terms of a march across Europe—which, of course, will be precipitated some day if the allies allow themselves first to be driven out of Asia. Also, when he says that "broadened war" in the Far East "might pin down the bulk of our military power on the continent of Asia," he seems to overlook the fact that a considerable portion of the Soviet military power would be pinned down there, too, and that Russia's air power would be divided. For the allies would seek to smash from the air the single thin railroad line across Siberia. After this vital supply line to China was destroyed, the war in the Far East would be over. Instead of defeatism and frustration, other military viewpoints are being expressed here by top military men—and they don't agree with General Bradley, either.

Party-Line Refusal Would Become Crime

Albany, March 4 (AP) — The Assembly has voted to make it a crime to refuse to give up a party telephone line in an emergency.

The bill, passed yesterday and sent to the Senate, also would make it an act of malicious mischief to obtain the line by falsely stating it was needed for an emergency.

The maximum sentence for either violation would be two years in prison.

Rain, Snow Felt In Eastern Sections

(By The Associated Press)

More rain and snow pelted wide areas in the eastern half of the nation again today as early March storms continued.

No severe cold was reported in any section of the country, but clearing skies and colder weather appeared in prospect for most of the rain and snow swept midwest areas.

Rain fell early today from North Carolina and eastern Tennessee northeastward into New York and south New England. Snow hit areas in central and northern New England and the Great Lakes region, and in sections of Missouri and eastern Kansas.

Skies were fair to partly cloudy along the south Atlantic coast and the east gulf coast region. Generally fair to partly cloudy weather also was reported over most of the western half of the country. Light snow fell in the northern Rockies.

Heavy rain was reported over southwest and midwest states yesterday, extending from Oklahoma eastward into Tennessee and northeastward into the Great Lakes region. Falls measured nearly three inches at Lexington, Ky., and around two inches in Detroit, and Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind. Spencer, Ind., hit by more than eight inches of snow in a blizzard Sunday, was struck by a flash flood from melting snow and nearly two inches of rain in a 90-minute storm.

'Morning Devotions'

Editor, The Freeman:

I read with interest your article concerning our program, "Morning Devotions," on the front page of your February 25 issue. I would appreciate an opportunity to clarify some of the issues involved.

First of all, this station has in the past cooperated to the fullest degree with all religious faiths. We plan to continue this policy in the future. Not only do we program regular times daily and weekly for all faiths, but also we devote a good amount of announcement and program time to special church charities and events. An accurate estimate places the value of WKNY's time devoted to church programs and announcements close to a figure of $8,000 yearly.

I'm sure you realize the value of certain space in your newspaper over other sections which receive less reader attention. For example, I'm sure you would feel it inadvisable to run a column devoted to church news at the top of your front page, although you do include church notices and inspirational messages further back in your editions. In this connection, it seems to me that radio and newspaper policy is analogous. Just as your newspaper's make-up features the items of highest news value to the most people on your front page, we ascertain what the most people want at any given time and attempt to program accordingly. For example, our entire Sunday morning, with the exception of one half hour devoted to news and music, is given over to religious broadcasts, the feature of which is the 11 to 12 noon service presented directly from one of the churches of the Kingston Ministerial Association. This is done because we believe that our listeners at that time are interested mainly in our presentation of such programs.

With the above in mind, and in specific reference to our change of time for "Morning Devotion," we feel that listener interest at 8:20 a. m. calls for a different type of program. Well in advance of the proposed change, we notified the Kingston Ministerial Association, and offered them a choice of what we considered to be outstanding program times and combinations of times. For example, a brief interdenominational inspirational message was offered at 7:30 in the morning, along with a full 15 minute program every afternoon at 2:45 or every evening at 10:45. Both from mail responses and from sponsor result, we have been able to establish that the afternoon and evening times mentioned have a high listener rating. We have also offered a new 15 minute Sunday morning time (9 a. m.) to the Ministerial Association in addition to the other times noted, and in addition to the hour on Sunday they are already utilizing.

As you have perhaps been informed by now, the Sunday 15 minutes has been accepted by the Association. Likewise, in a meeting attended by both members of the Ministerial Group and representatives of this station, it was decided to present a new morning inspirational message at 8:50 a. m. daily, which will start on March 9.

Thank you for your interest in our devotional program. Because of that interest, and the value your readers place upon our religious broadcasts, I hope you will be able to print this letter.

Sincerely,

ROBERT SABIN,
Program Director.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Walter Heaney of 122 Wurts street brought me two books. One the famous "Treasure Island" by Stevenson and the other "The Pioneers" by Cooper. Both of these are school editions. It has been many years since I saw books of this type with notes and explanations in the back of the book. It is now over 100 years ago, (Nov. 13, 1850) that Robert Louis Stevenson was born and the 'power of the pen' keeps his craft and name alive. He was born in Edinburgh, a child of a long line of famous engineers, his grandfather, Robert, built the Bell Rock Light. But sadly to say, he had to spend most of his time indoors playing with toys because he was battling all his life with T. B. and so came about his "A Child's Garden of Verses" and many other youthful poems besides his even more famous "Treasure Island."

Because of his illness his attendance at school was not regular, but his interest in story-telling and his creative imagination led him to practice the art of writing with a regularity which no school could have inspired. In spite of his absence he did enter Edinburgh University in 1867 to study engineering, thus trying to follow his family profession. His father even took him on several professional excursions to the northern and western islands. His imagination always alive for story-telling, one of these islands, Earraid, off the coast of Mull, impressed him so, that this island became the background scene for his story of "The Merry Men" and an episode in "Kidnapped." His life is as interesting as the poems and books he wrote.

I had a call from an enthusastic lady, who was interested in the column the other evening covering the Alms Commission report in the Kingston "Courier" of Jan. 11, 1876. She gave me her 'phone number, and now I can't find it. I do hope she sees this column, and forgives me and gets in touch with me again, as I am sure she has some interesting stories to tell me about old Kingston. It seems her husband was superintendent of the old Alms House for a long time.

I wonder how many of our younger set saw the Sunday News of Feb. 22nd, 1953. In the color-foto section under "Personalities in the News" Don Cornell, vocalist with Sammy Kaye's Orchestra, has a page to himself. His real name is Dominico Francisco Cornello and some 15 years ago, when he was 17 years old he stepped out from the Bronx to make his way from the boxing world to the music world. We knew him well in Kingston, for back in 1944, he was a sergeant down at Stewart Field. Many times the band came up this way and Don came along and sang for us. He was always pleasant and willing to lend a hand and his voice to various social money raising affairs around here.

I have an excellent photo taken by Jerry Martin at the Governor Clinton Hotel in which Don Cornell, then in uniform is surrounded by local girls. Among them is Peg Schilling, Marie Murphy and Patsy Caunitz, and others who were working on the March of Dimes ball. Jerry Martin through the courtesy of Carstairs, loaned his ability as 'flash photographer' to take pictures and also add to the financial intake of the ball. It was quite a gala affair, a pleasant memory to look back to.

Castleton Has Candidate

Castleton-on-Hudson, March 3 (AP)—This village of 1,751 persons had a candidate for mayor today, after its third attempt to find someone willing to take the $500-a-year job. Rayfield Downe, the third person nominated on the single-party ballot in less than a week, said last night he would serve. Downe is a village trustee. The Citizens Party, the only one on the ballot in village elections, renominated Mayor Paul F. Hanreeder last Tuesday, over his protest. Hanreeder declined the nomination the next day. The same day, the committee on vacancies named Henry Peters, a businessman. He turned the nomination down on Saturday.

Jelke Attorneys Abandon Efforts

New York, March 4 (AP)—Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke's attorneys have abandoned efforts to get the margarine heir out of jail on bail pending his sentencing March 20.

Meanwhile, his mother and stepfather talked with General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente, who had invited them to come forward with a program of rehabilitation for the 23-year-old playboy.

Both events yesterday followed by a day statements in which Valente indicated indirectly that he might be considering a suspended sentence for Jelke.

Jelke was convicted last Friday of inticing Pat Ward, 19, into prostitution and of trying to do the same with Marguerite Cordova, 23. He could be sentenced up to 40 years.

Valente has refused bail for Jelke, saying the youth's "remaining in jail now is a very important part of his rehabilitation."

There was no report yesterday of what topics were discussed by Valente and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teal. Presumably they talked of a possible rehabilitation program for Jelke based on a light or suspended sentence.

Mrs. Teal, Jelke's mother, is divorced from his father. Both she and her present husband are listed in the social register.

Defense Attorney Sam Segal later said, "we will make no effort to take him out on bail before the sentence date."

Cap-Pistol Holdup Balked

Boston (AP) — An 18-year-old youth who went to rob a downtown department store with a 69-cent cap-pistol just didn't have any luck. The cashier, of whom he demanded the money, swept the money to the floor with her hand and yelled for help. The would-be holdup man fled through streets filled with shoppers. He was caught by two detectives who just happened to be talking to a traffic officer when the culprit came dashing off the scene.

lew Violence Is 'hreatened Over laking of Movie

Silver City, N. M., March 4 (AP) -Peace officers tensed as a new ireat of violence arose today over ie controversial movie, "Salt of ie Earth," being filmed in this outhwest New Mexico mining rea.

The state police force was alert- l after Sheriff Owen Matthews eported 150 townsmen at nearby entral had decided to warn iakers of the film to "get out by oon or go out in black boxes."

The sheriff notified State Police hief Joe Roach in Santa Fe that 10-man committee had been ap- ointed at the meeting to deliver ie ultimatum to the movie iakers, who have been accused in ongress of making the film un- er Communist auspices.

Matthews asked that state po- e reinforcements be sent to ick up local officers. Roach nswered that he would have 30 o 40 officers on hand in the area efore the noon deadline, and he ould be heading them.

Says They Won't Quit

Despite the threat, Clinton ncks, international representa- ve of the Union of Mine, Mill nd Smelter Workers, which is oducing the movie, declared: "We are not going to back down cause of any informal threats. e will be on the job at our usual ooting schedules."

Yesterday, Jencks' eye was ackened by an irate citizen who ojected to the movie. He filed a mplaint of assault and battery gainst Earl Lett, stocky 42-year-old druggist at neighboring Bayard.

Lett owned up cheerfully to the attack. He said:

"I grabbed him by the coat so he couldn't get away and let him have it."

Crews Are Barred

Jencks was attacked as Bayard residents barred camera crews from using the town for a scenic background.

The Mine-Mill Union was tossed out of the CIO some time ago because its leaders refused to swear they weren't Communists. Jencks refused last fall to tell a Congressional committee the same thing, as have the movie people connected with the show.

Rosaura Revueltas, Mexican movie star who had a leading part in the film, attended the Soviet-sponsored international film festival in East Berlin last summer. She is held by the Immigration Service in El Paso on charges she entered this country illegally.

Rep. Jackson (R-Calif) was the one who labeled the movie "Communist-sponsored." In a speech in Congress last week, he said it was "a new weapon for Russia* * * produced under Communist auspices.

Soon after Jackson's talk, Paul Jarrico, Hollywood film writer and one of the film's producers, declared that Jackson ought to "take off his cloak of congressional immunity and fight like a man. Rep. Jackson is an unmitigated liar."

Hyatt Is Sentenced

Jackson, Mich., March 4 (AP)—"Crazy Jack" Hyatt drew a 15 to 23 year sentence yesterday for kidnaping guards and holding them hostage during the bloody riot at southern Michigan prison last April. Circuit Judge John Simpson at first made the sentence 15 to 25 years. But "Crazy Jack" protested. He said he had more than 23 years to do on a 25-30 year term for robbery. So the judge cut off two years and made the terms concurrent.

No Cause Verdict Is Given in Court

A city court jury yesterday returned a verdict of no cause of action in a contract suit brought by Patsy and Mary Amendola, of 450 Albany avenue, against Henry Oakley, a mason contractor, of Stone Ridge.

The plaintiffs claimed that it was agreed that cement used for the laying of brick on the Albany avenue house was to be black in effect. They claimed that after the work was done, some of it was black and some was lighter in color, and they sued to collect $595.

Attorneys John Wilkie and James Matthews appeared for the plaintiffs and Charles Gaffney for the defendant.

NAM Makes Request

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) today asked Congress to outlaw industry-wide strikes and outlaw all forms of "compulsory unionism" such as the union shop. The NAM claims to represent 85 per cent of the nation's manufacturing capacity and to have more than 9,000 members. In a statement prepared for the House Labor Committee, George W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the association's industrial relations committee, said: "Aside from compulsory unionism, the greatest source of monopoly powers lies in industry-wide bargaining." On those two proposals, the AFL, CIO and other organized labor groups have taken a position precisely opposite to that outlined by the NAM.

Automotive Hint

U. S. Business May Be Affected by Stalin's Stroke

New York, March 4 (AP)—Stalin's stroke could affect this country's business outlook sharply.

A change of administration in Russia—on the heels of a change of administration in this one—unquestionably would add to the uncertainty now troubling businessmen in their plans for the next year or so.

The new look in world affairs comes just when the American economy is in a state of uneasy balance, with many thinking the peak of the boom may have been reached.

Much will depend upon the psychological effect upon the public.

If the public decides that the removal of Stalin's hand from the rule of Red Russia might offer prospects for long-hoped-for world peace, the reaction on commodity and "war-baby" stock prices could be the same as followed every truce rumor in Korea.

With the economy as closely balanced as it is now, the psychological effect might carry heavy weight on the down side.

War Scare May Hurt

If the public decides that a new regime in Russia might be more warlike than Stalin's, another war scare might run through the market places—even though the public has now learned that this country's industry can produce at a rate to satisfy almost all present military and civilian demands.

Nervousness growing out of the news from Moscow could change the aspect of many problems affecting business and the consumer and taxpayer, that are now being debated in Congress and wherever businessmen convene.

Business has been worrying about what will happen to it when the defense spending loses its upward thrust on the economy.

The defense spending program and timetable may take a new turn—depending on how Moscow jumps.

Could Affect Budget

That could have a major effect on the present efforts to trim the budget and bring the nation's finances into balance.

It could deal another blow to the dimming hopes for a tax cut soon.

It might even put a show of new life into the now all but dead price and wage controls, and the dying controls over materials.

Stalin's stroke finds this country at a peak of industrial production.

The Federal Reserve Board estimates its index for February to have risen to 239, which equals the record monthly average set in war-time 1943. The production index is based on the average for 1935-39 as 100.

The Moscow story comes as this country is debating how to break the Korean stalemate, how to pep up the defenses of our allies in Europe, what to do about the trade barriers they complain of, and whether to give them more money—or open our gates to more of their goods and raw materials.

Record High in Income

This nation is also enjoying a record high in personal income. It has been going through the greatest business plant expansion in its history. It has piled up a huge public debt, and its private debt has risen much faster.

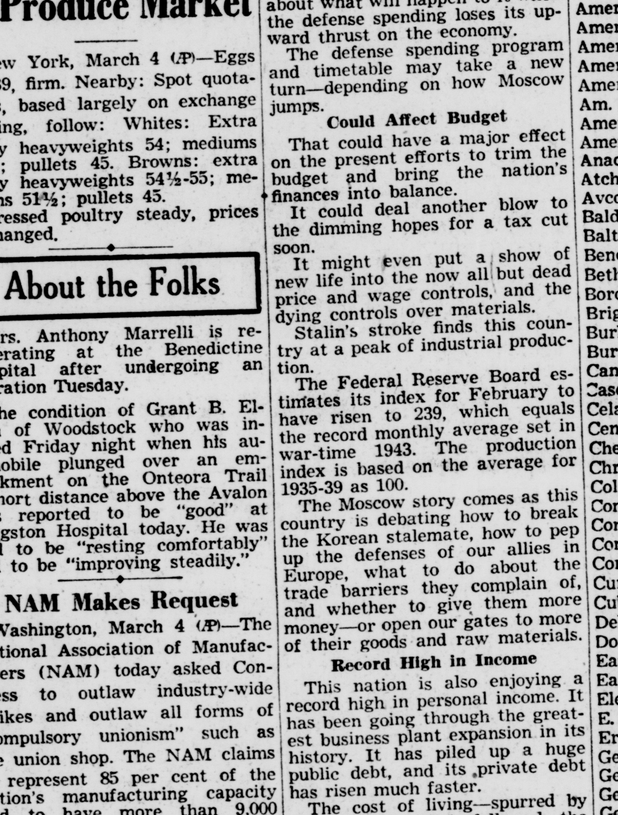
The cost of living—spurred by the inflation that followed the Korean war scare—has only just begun to back away from its all-time high.

Another war scare could send it up again. But if Moscow turns conciliatory, prospects of peace could burst many high price bubbles still existing.

For the immediate future, the chances are for a period of increasing tension and nervousness—as the new administrations of the world's two most powerful powers feel each other out.

Businessmen are used to tension and uncertainty by now. But that doesn't mean they thrive on it.

Arizona, with a total area of 113,956 square miles, is surpassed in size only by California, Montana, New Mexico, and Texas.



YANKEE DOODLE—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proved that he could doodle with the best of them when he appeared for questioning before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. When asked what prompted him to write "Dulles Must Go," he said that was the new slogan of the New York Daily Worker, Communist Party newspaper.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 5 (AP) — The Stock Market worked itself into a decline today against the background of Stalin's illness and General Van Fleet's statement on Korean victory.

The fall carried stocks off by as much as 1 to 3 points at the outside, and plus signs were scattered and small.

Trading stepped up to a pace of around two million shares for the entire session with the tape falling as much as a minute behind during a short period. That compares with 1,850,000 shares traded yesterday.

The railroads, steels and aircraft were the hardest hit among major divisions, but all other points down including motors, oils, coppers, chemicals, and electronics issues.

Companies at the top of the list of those making the most arms and war materials for the Korean conflict and for the American military were all lower, many at the extreme end of the decline.

They included General Motors, General Electric, Chrysler, Boeing, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Republic Aviation, American locomotive, North American Aviation, and Lockheed.

American Telephone held steady.

Also lower were Bethlehem Steel, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Kennecott Copper, du Pont, American Tobacco, St. Regis Paper, Goodrich, and Zenith Radio.

Peter B. Keller Termed Suicide

Peter B. Keller, 75, a landscape gardener, was found dead of a gunshot wound on a couch in his home, 31 Brook street, at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, who investigated, returned a verdict of suicide, reporting that Keller shot himself in the chest with a 32 caliber revolver. In his opinion the man had been dead since Sunday. He said the body had been discovered late Tuesday afternoon by Keller's nephew.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said the facts indicated suicide. Keller had been in ill health for some time and was reported to have threatened suicide, he said.

Keller apparently opened his outside shirt and set the gun against his undershirt, the revolver dropping to the floor beside the couch after the shot was fired, the district attorney said.

Funeral services will be private at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, with burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery. No time was announced for the services. Surviving are several nieces and nephews.

Keller was a son of the late John George and Henrietta Kronick Keller.

Rent Approval Forecast, Some Trouble Expected

Albany, March 4 (AP)—Gov. Dewey's legislative leaders forecast today the administration's program to ease rent ceilings would be approved—although some Republicans were disgruntled.

One top leader said privately he had no doubt the measure would clear the Senate and Assembly, but he acknowledged possible headaches with some of his GOP colleagues.

Some New York city Republicans were miffed because their party chieftains proposed any liberalization of the present rent-control law. Pitted against them was a bloc of upstate GOP legislators who contended all controls should be scrapped in areas north of the city.

The Democrats marshalled their memberships solidly against the Dewey administration's program, and promised a rough floor fight to continue the present law "as is." They hoped enough GOP insurgents would join them to upset the administration's plan.

The new rent bill was sponsored yesterday by the state's temporary commission, which has authored previous Dewey rent measures.

Competition Rises

tally Rheude withdrew and on the second ballot Jansen received 278 votes and Van Valkenburgh 179. Van Valkenburgh loosing three of his original votes.

Prior to the second vote being taken several people had left the hall believing that the first ballot had been valid, not knowing that a majority vote was necessary.

The other trustee contest was also an interesting one with Dr. Roland Will being opposed by Marinus Petersen, a newcomer to New Paltz political circles. Petersen won the contest when he received 268 votes and Dr. Will 225.

Advocates Change

Peter Harp who sponsored Petersen said the village had been led by an engineer, a doctor and a professor in the past and he advocated a change with business men at the helm.

While there was some 600 people crowding the hall, the caucus was orderly and good natured. All votes had been tallied by 10 o'clock.

Two sets of tellers were appointed and while the first set of tellers was tallying the first vote the caucus proceeded and the second set of tellers then went into action. On the final vote the tellers who had completed their duties took over and in this manner a continuous voting was possible.

Howard Mosher was elected chairman of the caucus and speeded up the voting in a most efficient manner and kept the caucus proceeding along very orderly lines.

As a result of the contests last evening it is expected that the election of St. Patrick's Day evening will be a spirited one with a very large turnout.

Keeps Up Offensive

Tehran, Iran, March 4 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh kept up the offensive today in his struggle for power with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, demanding that Parliament intervene in alleged royal court intrigues against his government. The move was disclosed last night by the semi-official newspaper Bakhtar Emrooz as Tehran returned closer to normal after riotous demonstrations in which three persons were killed and an estimated 60 injured since Sunday.

The minister had held pastorates at White Plains and Pleasantville, N. Y.; at the Lutheran Church, New York city; Brockton and Quincy, Mass., and Naugatuck, Conn.

No Cause Verdict Is Given in Court

A city court jury yesterday returned a verdict of no cause of action in a contract suit brought by Patsy and Mary Amendola, of 450 Albany avenue, against Henry Oakley, a mason contractor, of Stone Ridge.

The plaintiffs claimed that it was agreed that cement used for the laying of brick on the Albany avenue house was to be black in effect. They claimed that after the work was done, some of it was black and some was lighter in color, and they sued to collect $595.

Attorneys John Wilkie and James Matthews appeared for the plaintiffs and Charles Gaffney for the defendant.

Marlborough Man Is Found Dead

Fred "Joe" Miller, 69, of Marlborough, an employe of the John Manion farm, Marlborough, for many years, was found dead in the driveway of the Manion home early today, Highland State Police reported.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly returned a verdict of natural death due to a heart attack.

Sgt. Linn Baker of the Highland barracks said troopers received a call at 5:50 a. m. today reporting discovery of the body. Time of death was not fixed.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at the Tuthill Funeral Home, Marlborough, with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Newburgh. There were no immediate survivors.

NAM Makes Request

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) today asked Congress to outlaw industry-wide strikes and outlaw all forms of "compulsory unionism" such as the union shop. The NAM claims to represent 85 per cent of the nation's manufacturing capacity and to have more than 9,000 members. In a statement prepared for the House Labor Committee, George W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the association's industrial relations committee, said: "Aside from compulsory unionism, the greatest source of monopoly powers lies in industry-wide bargaining." On those two proposals, the AFL, CIO and other organized labor groups have taken a position precisely opposite to that outlined by the NAM.

Automotive Hint

Carbon in the intake manifold and poor carburetion sometimes causes offensive fumes to leak into a car which has been driven many thousands of miles. Sandblasting the inside surface of the manifold, and carefully adjusting the carburetor, will remedy this trouble.

U. S. Business May Be Affected by Stalin's Stroke

New York, March 4 (AP)—Stalin's stroke could affect this country's business outlook sharply.

A change of administration in Russia—on the heels of a change of administration in this one—unquestionably would add to the uncertainty now troubling businessmen in their plans for the next year or so.

The new look in world affairs comes just when the American economy is in a state of uneasy balance, with many thinking the peak of the boom may have been reached.

Much will depend upon the psychological effect upon the public.

If the public decides that the removal of Stalin's hand from the rule of Red Russia might offer prospects for long-hoped-for world peace, the reaction on commodity and "war-baby" stock prices could be the same as followed every truce rumor in Korea.

With the economy as closely balanced as it is now, the psychological effect might carry heavy weight on the down side.

War Scare May Hurt

If the public decides that a new regime in Russia might be more warlike than Stalin's, another war scare might run through the market places—even though the public has now learned that this country's industry can produce at a rate to satisfy almost all present military and civilian demands.

Nervousness growing out of the news from Moscow could change the aspect of many problems affecting business and the consumer and taxpayer, that are now being debated in Congress and wherever businessmen convene.

Business has been worrying about what will happen to it when the defense spending loses its upward thrust on the economy.

The defense spending program and timetable may take a new turn—depending on how Moscow jumps.

Could Affect Budget

That could have a major effect on the present efforts to trim the budget and bring the nation's finances into balance.

It could deal another blow to the dimming hopes for a tax cut soon.

It might even put a show of new life into the now all but dead price and wage controls, and the dying controls over materials.

Stalin's stroke finds this country at a peak of industrial production.

The Federal Reserve Board estimates its index for February to have risen to 239, which equals the record monthly average set in war-time 1943. The production index is based on the average for 1935-39 as 100.

The Moscow story comes as this country is debating how to break the Korean stalemate, how to pep up the defenses of our allies in Europe, what to do about the trade barriers they complain of, and whether to give them more money—or open our gates to more of their goods and raw materials.

Record High in Income

This nation is also enjoying a record high in personal income. It has been going through the greatest business plant expansion in its history. It has piled up a huge public debt, and its private debt has risen much faster.

The cost of living—spurred by the inflation that followed the Korean war scare—has only just begun to back away from its all-time high.

Another war scare could send it up again. But if Moscow turns conciliatory, prospects of peace could burst many high price bubbles still existing.

For the immediate future, the chances are for a period of increasing tension and nervousness—as the new administrations of the world's two most powerful powers feel each other out.

Businessmen are used to tension and uncertainty by now. But that doesn't mean they thrive on it.

Arizona, with a total area of 113,956 square miles, is surpassed in size only by California, Montana, New Mexico, and Texas.

YANKEE DOODLE—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proved that he could doodle with the best of them when he appeared for questioning before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. When asked what prompted him to write "Dulles Must Go," he said that was the new slogan of the New York Daily Worker, Communist Party newspaper.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 5 (AP) — The Stock Market worked itself into a decline today against the background of Stalin's illness and General Van Fleet's statement on Korean victory.

The fall carried stocks off by as much as 1 to 3 points at the outside, and plus signs were scattered and small.

Trading stepped up to a pace of around two million shares for the entire session with the tape falling as much as a minute behind during a short period. That compares with 1,850,000 shares traded yesterday.

The railroads, steels and aircraft were the hardest hit among major divisions, but all other points down including motors, oils, coppers, chemicals, and electronics issues.

Companies at the top of the list of those making the most arms and war materials for the Korean conflict and for the American military were all lower, many at the extreme end of the decline.

They included General Motors, General Electric, Chrysler, Boeing, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Republic Aviation, American locomotive, North American Aviation, and Lockheed.

American Telephone held steady.

Also lower were Bethlehem Steel, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Kennecott Copper, du Pont, American Tobacco, St. Regis Paper, Goodrich, and Zenith Radio.

Peter B. Keller Termed Suicide

Peter B. Keller, 75, a landscape gardener, was found dead of a gunshot wound on a couch in his home, 31 Brook street, at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, who investigated, returned a verdict of suicide, reporting that Keller shot himself in the chest with a 32 caliber revolver. In his opinion the man had been dead since Sunday. He said the body had been discovered late Tuesday afternoon by Keller's nephew.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said the facts indicated suicide. Keller had been in ill health for some time and was reported to have threatened suicide, he said.

Keller apparently opened his outside shirt and set the gun against his undershirt, the revolver dropping to the floor beside the couch after the shot was fired, the district attorney said.

Funeral services will be private at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, with burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery. No time was announced for the services. Surviving are several nieces and nephews.

Keller was a son of the late John George and Henrietta Kronick Keller.

Rent Approval Forecast, Some Trouble Expected

Albany, March 4 (AP)—Gov. Dewey's legislative leaders forecast today the administration's program to ease rent ceilings would be approved—although some Republicans were disgruntled.

One top leader said privately he had no doubt the measure would clear the Senate and Assembly, but he acknowledged possible headaches with some of his GOP colleagues.

Some New York city Republicans were miffed because their party chieftains proposed any liberalization of the present rent-control law. Pitted against them was a bloc of upstate GOP legislators who contended all controls should be scrapped in areas north of the city.

The Democrats marshalled their memberships solidly against the Dewey administration's program, and promised a rough floor fight to continue the present law "as is." They hoped enough GOP insurgents would join them to upset the administration's plan.

The new rent bill was sponsored yesterday by the state's temporary commission, which has authored previous Dewey rent measures.

Competition Rises

tally Rheude withdrew and on the second ballot Jansen received 278 votes and Van Valkenburgh 179, Van Valkenburgh loosing three of his original votes.

Prior to the second vote being taken several people had left the hall believing that the first ballot had been valid, not knowing that a majority vote was necessary.

The other trustee contest was also an interesting one with Dr. Roland Will being opposed by Marinus Petersen, a newcomer to New Paltz political circles. Petersen won the contest when he received 268 votes and Dr. Will 225.

Advocates Change

Peter Harp who sponsored Petersen said the village had been led by an engineer, a doctor and a professor in the past and he advocated a change with business men at the helm.

While there was some 600 people crowding the hall, the caucus was orderly and good natured. All votes had been tallied by 10 o'clock.

Two sets of tellers were appointed and while the first set of tellers was tallying the first vote the caucus proceeded and the second set of tellers then went into action. On the final vote the tellers who had completed their duties took over and in this manner a continuous voting was possible.

Howard Mosher was elected chairman of the caucus and speeded up the voting in a most efficient manner and kept the caucus proceeding along very orderly lines.

As a result of the contests last evening it is expected that the election of St. Patrick's Day evening will be a spirited one with a very large turnout.

Stalin Emerged From Chaos To Become Soviet Ruler

(By The Associated Press)

Joseph Stalin, the son of a cobbler, emerged out of the chaos of the Russian revolution to master the forces unleashed by the upheaval—and become the undisputed ruler of the Soviet Union and the world Communist movement.

He fought his way to the top by sweeping aside his revolutionary comrades, among them Leon Trotsky, after the death of Nikolai Lenin. Ever since 1924 Stalin has held the reins, but it took the purges of the 1930's to make his grip secure.

Such was the fury of the struggle to consolidate his rule that Stalin reportedly determined to perpetuate his empire by eliminating those conditions which might foster a new succession fight at his own death.

The summoning of an all-union Soviet Communist Party Congress last October, for the first time since pre-World War 2 days, indicated that perhaps the machinery of succession had been set in motion; for the dictator was approaching his 73rd birthday.

Honor Given to Malenkov

Stalin himself had made the keynote address at the previous Congress 13 years earlier, but this time the honor was given to Georgi M. Malenkov, a young and vigorous protege of Stalin.

As if he were preparing to take a back seat and watch younger men carry on the dictatorship he had forged, Stalin appeared at the Congress to delegates' wild cheers but did not immediately address the group. Instead he set the mood of the sessions with a 25,000-word lecture on political economy published on the eve of the first meeting Oct. 5. It sounded like a valedictory.

One of Stalin's main points in his statement, entitled "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR," was that conflicts in the capitalist camp make war between capitalist nations more likely than between a capitalist country and Russia.

Words Become Guide

The Congress at its last session Oct. 14 decided to reshape the party program with Stalin's words as a guide.

Stalin, who had attended the Congress meeting from the start, broke his silence at this final meeting to assure fellow Communists abroad that the Soviet party with six million members stands solidly behind them.

His speech was his first address before a large, major gathering since Feb. 9, 1946, when he spoke of Russia's war achievements and postwar policy.

Stalin's rise to the throne of communism was accomplished in the face of what seemed overwhelming odds in favor of Trotsky, who had been commander-in-chief of the Red armies during the revolution and who had appeared much closer to Lenin than Stalin.

Became Party Secretary

But Stalin became secretary of the Communist party and promptly started using his post, controlling party machinery, as a lever for prying himself into the ailing Lenin's place. Two years later Lenin died, and Stalin and Trotsky were in open conflict over the party leadership.

Stalin won the support of Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kamenev, two revolutionary stalwarts, and Trotsky was defeated. He was exiled in 1927.

The reward for Zinoviev and Kamenev came in 1936. With 14 others, they were brought to trial in Moscow. All confessed that the 1934 assassination of Sergei Kirov, a friend of Stalin, was a plot to wipe out Stalin and other Soviet Union leaders. The 16 defendants soon were executed. Other old Bolshevik leaders were ensnared in more of the famous Moscow purge trials. Stalin had become supreme; he was ready to lead Russia without internal opposition through the pre-world war 2 days and the global conflict itself.

Friendship With Hitler

He took his nation into a friendship agreement with Nazi Germany and thus freed international communism's bitter foe, Adolf Hitler, for his war of conquest. Stalin had his own conquests then too—in Finland, the Baltic States, Poland and Romania.

In December, 1940, Hitler turned on his former partner. Stalin found himself an ally of Great Britain and later the United States. Stalin became one of the "Big Three", holding conferences with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The Russian dictator had been lifted to new heights of power.

The anti-Axis partners successfully concluded the war, but in a few years the western allies in the war-time coalition were arrayed against the master of the Kremlin.

Stalin's power meanwhile had extended from Russia across Europe to the Elbe. The countries of eastern Europe were puppets in his hands. He saw the Chinese Communists drive to complete domination of mainland China.

Son of Serf Mother

Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili, the son of a Georgian shoemaker and a serf mother, was at his zenith as Joseph Stalin. His 70th birthday on Dec. 21, 1949, was the occasion for extravagant celebrations around the Communist world. There was a flood of adulation—70 freight carloads of gifts from conquered East Germany alone—for the dictator whose name means "steel."

It was the climax of a revolutionary career started when he was just 15 years old, and an unsatisfied theological student. He had organized strikes during the late 1890's, written pamphlets, and between 1902 and 1913 endured jail eight times and exile to Siberia seven times. It was in Siberia that Stalin received his first note from Lenin.

Lenin and his Bolsheviks in the October, 1917, revolution ousted the government of Alexander Kerensky, who had come to power in the confusion following the March, 1917, overthrow of the czar.

Stalin's youth had been ruthless. His climb to power was even more so. His application of domestic policy reflected the same trait.

He pushed through a series of so-called five year plans—the latest still in progress—designed to aid the nation's agricultural and industrial development. It resulted in the elimination of the Kulaks, wealthy peasants who opposed Stalin's collectivization of farms, as a class.

It made him master, a man who today holds the all-inclusive titles of "head of the Presidium, head of the party secretariat, head of the Central Committee, chairman of the Council of Ministers (prime minister or premier) and marshal."

Dick Powell Recuperates

Santa Monica, Calif., March 4 (AP)—Movie actor Dick Powell is recuperating in St. John's Hospital after two operations, but his condition is still serious. Powell, portrayer of detective roles and at one time a top singer in films, suffered a ruptured appendix and was operated upon, a studio representative said. Complications followed the appendectomy and further surgery became necessary. The 48-year-old actor's wife, actress June Allyson, has been in almost constant attendance at his bedside.

Parents Are Told Of Reading Work

Phoentics has a vital place in any recognized reading program of today, a panel discussion at the Myron J. Michael Junior High School Education Association meeting concluded on Monday evening.

"Phonetics is one of the many skills taught to the child in order to help him to be on his own in reading," said Miss Ruth Grant, reading specialist in Kingston schools. "In addition to phonetics the child of today learns to read through a good readiness program, the use of picture and context clues, learning to divide words into syllables, dictionary work, and so forth. No one system of reading will suit every child."

Miss M. Isabel Flynn, first grade teacher of No. 6 school, demonstrated on the screen copies of the various books used in the teaching of primary reading. These new books have a controlled vocabulary, well-graded content, meaningful pictures, readable type, and make excellent use of color. The books are graded to the experience that the child has had in life. Miss Flynn also described the phonetics program of the primary grades, which follows the learning of basic sight words.

Work Is Described

Miss Adiska Conro, MJM teacher, described the remedial work being done on the junior high school level and emphasized the developmental reading skills which are taught.

In answer to the question of how children in Kingston public schools compare with other schools in reading achievement, panel members pointed out that the wide range in reading ability in schools is a national rather than a local situation. Public and private, city and rural schools all show this wide range among students. This is not extra-ordinary since, by definition, half of the pupils in the country must be above average and half below average.

Among the causes of poor reading listed by panel members were: limitations due to the child's intelligence, a child's lack of emotional security, poor eyes or hearing, poor example on the part of the parent, faulty reading instruction, over-anxiety of parents. An important cause is that of requiring the child to read before he is mature enough, physically, emotionally, and mentally. The average age of reading readiness is about 6½ years.

Discussion of children's reading difficulties has been going on for over a half century, it was pointed out. A page from a Kingston Board of Education Report, dated 1898-99, was shown on the screen. The report called attention to six types of reading deficiences among school children — including their difficulties with phonetics. Since the time of that report, studies by the armed forces and the colleges indicate that each generation of Americans reads better than its fathers and mothers.

Suggestions Are Made

The panel made practical suggestions as to what parents can do to help those children who do have severe reading difficulties. Important among these were: The parent should set a good example, provide reading materials, encourage the child to bring home books from the library, discuss with him what he reads, give him plenty of affection, be patient, and not to make comparisons with the cihld's brothers, sisters, cousins, and neighbors.

In conclusion, William R. Reardon, principal of School No. 3, and member of the panel, stated that each parent should realize that his child's reading problem, if one exists, is an individual matter. It can only be solved by full cooperation of parent and school. Teachers, principals and guidance counselors are glad to be contacted by the parent, Reardon said.

The Education Association meeting was presided over by Jacob H. Tremper, president. Moderator of the panel was Harry T. Gumaer, principal. Questions from parents followed the prepared discussion.

Might Okay Pipeline

Paris, March 4 (AP)—After 18 months of squabbling, the French are about ready to let the United States lay a jet fuel pipeline across France. High ranking French officials said the pact would be sealed within two or three weeks. The pipeline would carry fuel for the jet fighters and bomber of the U. S. Air Force stationed in France and West Germany. The cost of the project could not be learned. The pipeline is expected to be laid diagonally across France from Bordeaux to Metz, some 440 air line miles.

Munich, Germany, March 4 (AP)—A ring smuggling industrial diamonds from Belgium to the Communist Soviet zone was cracked here today with the arrest of a Berlin woman who had hidden 90,000 marks ($21,420) in her baggage, German police announced. The woman, 48, was arrested at Munich Airport after her arrival from Berlin yesterday. Police said she admitted the money was to be taken to Belgium to buy more diamonds. Officials said 34 Dutch, Belgian, Polish and Czech nationals are suspected of being involved in the ring.

Stalin Emerged From Chaos To Become Soviet Ruler

(By The Associated Press)

Joseph Stalin, the son of a cobbler, emerged out of the chaos of the Russian revolution to master the forces unleashed by the upheaval—and become the undisputed ruler of the Soviet Union and the world Communist movement.

He fought his way to the top by sweeping aside his revolutionary comrades, among them Leon Trotsky, after the death of Nikolai Lenin. Ever since 1924 Stalin has held the reins, but it took the purges of the 1930's to make his grip secure.

Such was the fury of the struggle to consolidate his rule that Stalin reportedly determined to perpetuate his empire by eliminating those conditions which might foster a new succession fight at his own death.

The summoning of an all-union Soviet Communist Party Congress last October, for the first time since pre-World War 2 days, indicated that perhaps the machinery of succession had been set in motion; for the dictator was approaching his 73rd birthday.

Honor Given to Malenkov

Stalin himself had made the keynote address at the previous Congress 13 years earlier, but this time the honor was given to Georgi M. Malenkov, a young and vigorous protege of Stalin.

As if he were preparing to take a back seat and watch younger men carry on the dictatorship he had forged, Stalin appeared at the Congress to delegates' wild cheers but did not immediately address the group. Instead he set the mood of the sessions with a 25,000-word lecture on political economy published on the eve of the first meeting Oct. 5. It sounded like a valedictory.

One of Stalin's main points in his statement, entitled "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR," was that conflicts in the capitalist camp make war between capitalist nations more likely than between a capitalist country and Russia.

Words Become Guide

The Congress at its last session Oct. 14 decided to reshape the party program with Stalin's words as a guide.

Stalin, who had attended the Congress meeting from the start, broke his silence at this final meeting to assure fellow Communists abroad that the Soviet party with six million members stands solidly behind them.

His speech was his first address before a large, major gathering since Feb. 9, 1946, when he spoke of Russia's war achievements and postwar policy.

Stalin's rise to the throne of communism was accomplished in the face of what seemed overwhelming odds in favor of Trotsky, who had been commander-in-chief of the Red armies during the revolution and who had appeared much closer to Lenin than Stalin.

Became Party Secretary

But Stalin became secretary of the Communist party and promptly started using his post, controlling party machinery, as a lever for prying himself into the ailing Lenin's place. Two years later Lenin died, and Stalin and Trotsky were in open conflict over the party leadership.

Stalin won the support of Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kamenev, two revolutionary stalwarts, and Trotsky was defeated. He was exiled in 1927.

The reward for Zinoviev and Kamenev came in 1936. With 14 others, they were brought to trial in Moscow. All confessed that the 1934 assassination of Sergei Kirov, a friend of Stalin, was a plot to wipe out Stalin and other Soviet Union leaders. The 16 defendants soon were executed. Other old Bolshevik leaders were ensnared in more of the famous Moscow purge trials. Stalin had become supreme; he was ready to lead Russia without internal opposition through the pre-world war 2 days and the global conflict itself.

Friendship With Hitler

He took his nation into a friendship agreement with Nazi Germany and thus freed international communism's bitter foe, Adolf Hitler, for his war of conquest. Stalin had his own conquests then too—in Finland, the Baltic States, Poland and Romania.

In December, 1940, Hitler turned on his former partner. Stalin found himself an ally of Great Britain and later the United States. Stalin became one of the "Big Three", holding conferences with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The Russian dictator had been lifted to new heights of power.

The anti-Axis partners successfully concluded the war, but in a few years the western allies in the war-time coalition were arrayed against the master of the Kremlin.

Stalin's power meanwhile had extended from Russia across Europe to the Elbe. The countries of eastern Europe were puppets in his hands. He saw the Chinese Communists drive to complete domination of mainland China.

Son of Serf Mother

Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili, the son of a Georgian shoemaker and a serf mother, was at his zenith as Joseph Stalin. His 70th birthday on Dec. 21, 1949, was the occasion for extravagant celebrations around the Communist world. There was a flood of adulation—70 freight carloads of gifts from conquered East Germany alone—for the dictator whose name means "steel."

It was the climax of a revolutionary career started when he was just 15 years old, and an unsatisfied theological student. He had organized strikes during the late 1890's, written pamphlets, and between 1902 and 1913 endured jail eight times and exile to Siberia seven times. It was in Siberia that Stalin received his first note from Lenin.

Lenin and his Bolsheviks in the October, 1917, revolution ousted the government of Alexander Kerensky, who had come to power in the confusion following the March, 1917, overthrow of the czar.

Stalin's youth had been ruthless. His climb to power was even more so. His application of domestic policy reflected the same trait.

He pushed through a series of so-called five year plans—the latest still in progress—designed to aid the nation's agricultural and industrial development. It resulted in the elimination of the Kulaks, wealthy peasants who opposed Stalin's collectivization of farms, as a class.

It made him master, a man who today holds the all-inclusive titles of "head of the Presidium, head of the party secretariat, head of the Central Committee, chairman of the Council of Ministers (prime minister or premier) and marshal."

Dick Powell Recuperates

Santa Monica, Calif., March 4 (AP)—Movie actor Dick Powell is recuperating in St. John's Hospital after two operations, but his condition is still serious. Powell, portrayer of detective roles and at one time a top singer in films, suffered a ruptured appendix and was operated upon, a studio representative said. Complications followed the appendectomy and further surgery became necessary. The 48-year-old actor's wife, actress June Allyson, has been in almost constant attendance at his bedside.

Coast Guard Rescues Plane Crew at Sea

The Coos Bay, on a routine patrol of the Atlantic, had responded to the plane's radio for help and managed to reach scene prior to crash landing. None of the plane crew were seriously injured. (U. S. Parents Are Told Of Reading Work

Phoentics has a vital place in any recognized reading program of today, a panel discussion at the Myron J. Michael Junior High School Education Association meeting concluded on Monday evening.

"Phonetics is one of the many skills taught to the child in order to help him to be on his own in reading," said Miss Ruth Grant, reading specialist in Kingston schools. "In addition to phonetics the child of today learns to read through a good readiness program, the use of picture and context clues, learning to divide words into syllables, dictionary work, and so forth. No one system of reading will suit every child."

Miss M. Isabel Flynn, first grade teacher of No. 6 school, demonstrated on the screen copies of the various books used in the teaching of primary reading. These new books have a controlled vocabulary, well-graded content, meaningful pictures, readable type, and make excellent use of color. The books are graded to the experience that the child has had in life. Miss Flynn also described the phonetics program of the primary grades, which follows the learning of basic sight words.

Work Is Described

Miss Adiska Conro, MJM teacher, described the remedial work being done on the junior high school level and emphasized the developmental reading skills which are taught.

In answer to the question of how children in Kingston public schools compare with other schools in reading achievement, panel members pointed out that the wide range in reading ability in schools is a national rather than a local situation. Public and private, city and rural schools all show this wide range among students. This is not extra-ordinary since, by definition, half of the pupils in the country must be above average and half below average.

Among the causes of poor reading listed by panel members were: limitations due to the child's intelligence, a child's lack of emotional security, poor eyes or hearing, poor example on the part of the parent, faulty reading instruction, over-anxiety of parents. An important cause is that of requiring the child to read before he is mature enough, physically, emotionally, and mentally. The average age of reading readiness is about 6½ years.

Discussion of children's reading difficulties has been going on for over a half century, it was pointed out. A page from a Kingston Board of Education Report, dated 1898-99, was shown on the screen. The report called attention to six types of reading deficiences among school children — including their difficulties with phonetics. Since the time of that report, studies by the armed forces and the colleges indicate that each generation of Americans reads better than its fathers and mothers.

Suggestions Are Made

The panel made practical suggestions as to what parents can do to help those children who do have severe reading difficulties. Important among these were: The parent should set a good example, provide reading materials, encourage the child to bring home books from the library, discuss with him what he reads, give him plenty of affection, be patient, and not to make comparisons with the cihld's brothers, sisters, cousins, and neighbors.

In conclusion, William R. Reardon, principal of School No. 3, and member of the panel, stated that each parent should realize that his child's reading problem, if one exists, is an individual matter. It can only be solved by full cooperation of parent and school. Teachers, principals and guidance counselors are glad to be contacted by the parent, Reardon said.

The Education Association meeting was presided over by Jacob H. Tremper, president. Moderator of the panel was Harry T. Gumaer, principal. Questions from parents followed the prepared discussion.

Might Okay Pipeline

Paris, March 4 (AP)—After 18 months of squabbling, the French are about ready to let the United States lay a jet fuel pipeline across France. High ranking French officials said the pact would be sealed within two or three weeks. The pipeline would carry fuel for the jet fighters and bomber of the U. S. Air Force stationed in France and West Germany. The cost of the project could not be learned. The pipeline is expected to be laid diagonally across France from Bordeaux to Metz, some 440 air line miles.

Diamond 'Ring' Cracked

Munich, Germany, March 4 (AP)—A ring smuggling industrial diamonds from Belgium to the Communist Soviet zone was cracked here today with the arrest of a Berlin woman who had hidden 90,000 marks ($21,420) in her baggage, German police announced. The woman, 48, was arrested at Munich Airport after her arrival from Berlin yesterday. Police said she admitted the money was to be taken to Belgium to buy more diamonds. Officials said 34 Dutch, Belgian, Polish and Czech nationals are suspected of being involved in the ring.

Vessel Watches Boats

Campeche, Mexico, March 4 (AP)—The Mexican Coast Guard vessel Virgilio Uride stood uneasy watch over 15 U. S. shrimp boats it seized yesterday off the Yucatan coast and herded into harbor here. The mass seizure strained U. S.-Mexican relations already tense because of four previous arrests on charges of illegal fishing.

The Mature Parent

We Can't Be Angry at a Past That's Taught Us Judgment

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

At 17, Mrs. B walked out of her parents' home one day—and married a young man they violently disapproved of. She had a baby boy named Henry. When the baby was 15 months old, his father walked out of his home one day — and went to live with another woman.

A brave girl, Mrs. B stood by this time. Instead of walking out, too, she got a job and went to work. Three years later, after she had gotten her divorce, she married Mr. B.

"He is a good husband and adores our baby girl," she writes. "However, he is cold and impatient toward Henry. Sometimes when he is playing with the baby, the look on my boy's face breaks my heart. Henry hero-worships his stepfather but is so afraid of his disapproval that he never dares speak to him. Is there anything I can do about this unhappy situation."

Indeed there is. This young mother can stop being ashamed of her mistake in marrying Henry's father.

Let's see how this shame operates. Henry is the result of action that everyone has condemned as unfortunate, isn't he? If his mother has accepted this verdict by those she loves without question, it would never occur to her to regard her mistake as fortunate, would it?

Of course it wouldn't. She would be so apologetic to everyone for marrying a weak, irresponsible person that her attitude toward his son would become defensive, too. Her feeling would be, "Please be kind to him. We didn't mean to offend you."

Young people of 17 who rush out and marry the wrong person do not divorce themselves from their mistake by getting a divorce decree. The law cannot possibly separate us from a destructive relationship. We have to separate ourselves from it by our own creative power.

That is what's needed here. This young woman has lost confidence in herself. The fact that her first adventure into independent judgment blew up in her face has scared her badly.

Without knowing it, she has decided against any more independent judgment. This makes her an easy dupe of her family's suggestion that her mistake was unfortunate.

As this is not true, such a lie should be consciously resisted.

Henry is not the result of unfortunate action, but of fortunate action. Without the testing experience he reperesents, his mother would still be a heedless, undiscerning girl.

Henry, not her family, taught Mrs. B's wife responsibility. It is this little boy who has so successfully trained her judgment that she could choose a good man for her second husband. Thus, Henry has earned a special place of honor in his stepfather's home.

I strongly urge these two people to perceive that gratitude, not resentment, is owed to a child who has inspired in his mother the qualities that makes their marriage happy. We just can't afford to be angry at a past that has taught us so much.

a fine game contract of four hearts. Considering the vulnerability, South was wise to sacrifice at four spades.

West opened the singleton club, and dummy won at once with the ace. South led a spade to the king, thought for a long moment, and returned a low trump in the hope that the two outstanding trumps would clash together. This duly happened, and South heaved a slight sight of relief.

East now cashed the king of clubs, and West discarded the eight of diamonds. It was at this moment that East made his defensive slip. East made the mistake of cashing the queen of clubs. It didn't seem like a mistake at the time, but it cost the defenders a trick.

Having taken his two club tricks, East switched to the ace and then a low diamond. West took the second round of diamonds and led a heart through the dummy's ace.

Declarer now saved a trick by going up with the ace of hearts, ruffing dummy's fourth club, and returning to dummy by means of the nine of spades in order to cash the fifth club. In this way, declarer lost no hearts, and therefore suffered a penalty of only 300 points. This was a fine sacrifice, since the opponents had an easy game at hearts.

There was no reason for East to take his second club trick in such a hurry. He should have switched to diamonds immediately, allowing West to lead through dummy's ace of hearts while dummy's clubs were still far from establishment. Declarer would then have to lose a heart trick, for a total loss of 500 points.

The important point was that there was nothing in dummy on which declarer could possibly discard his losing club. Hence East could safely abandon the clubs and turn his attention to the other suits.

Verdi composed his last opera, "Falstaff," in his 80th year, and many musicians consider it his greatest.

One of the important things to know about defensive play is that certain tricks must be taken quickly before the mice get at them, while other tricks can be left out in the open without the slightest fear of spoilage. The difference is illustrated in the hand shown today, taken from a recent team match.

South's jump overcall of two spades was an attempt to shut West out of the bidding. West decided that his distribution was too good for a meek pass, so he risked a bid of three hearts. This was fortunate enough to lead to

One of the important things to know about defensive play is that certain tricks must be taken quickly before the mice get at them, while other tricks can be left out in the open without the slightest fear of spoilage. The difference is illustrated in the hand shown today, taken from a recent team match.

South's jump overcall of two spades was an attempt to shut West out of the bidding. West decided that his distribution was too good for a meek pass, so he risked a bid of three hearts. This was fortunate enough to lead to a fine game contract of four hearts. Considering the vulnerability, South was wise to sacrifice at four spades.

West opened the singleton club, and dummy won at once with the ace. South led a spade to the king, thought for a long moment, and returned a low trump in the hope that the two outstanding trumps would clash together. This duly happened, and South heaved a slight sight of relief.

East now cashed the king of clubs, and West discarded the eight of diamonds. It was at this moment that East made his defensive slip. East made the mistake of cashing the queen of clubs. It didn't seem like a mistake at the time, but it cost the defenders a trick.

Having taken his two club tricks, East switched to the ace and then a low diamond. West took the second round of diamonds and led a heart through the dummy's ace.

Declarer now saved a trick by going up with the ace of hearts, ruffing dummy's fourth club, and returning to dummy by means of the nine of spades in order to cash the fifth club. In this way, declarer lost no hearts, and therefore suffered a penalty of only 300 points. This was a fine sacrifice, since the opponents had an easy game at hearts.

There was no reason for East to take his second club trick in such a hurry. He should have switched to diamonds immediately, allowing West to lead through dummy's ace of hearts while dummy's clubs were still far from establishment. Declarer would then have to lose a heart trick, for a total loss of 500 points.

The important point was that there was nothing in dummy on which declarer could possibly discard his losing club. Hence East could safely abandon the clubs and turn his attention to the other suits.

Verdi composed his last opera, "Falstaff," in his 80th year, and many musicians consider it his greatest.

DISPLAY LAMPLESS ROOM

This letter from a bride explains: "When we were married, six months ago, a relative promised that she would give us a lamp for a wedding present when we went to housekeeping. We found an apartment two months ago and have just about finished furnishing it. Up to now we have not received the lamp, nor have we heard anything further about it. Could I possibly remind her of this? I don't like to go out and buy one if she is going to give it to us, as I could use the money for something else."

Personally, I can't imagine a living room with only one lamp in it—unless the room is very small and the lamp's light unusually bright. In other words, a second one could scarcely go to waste. However, you could telephone your relative and say that you are now settled and ask her to come to see you. When she does come, and the room is plainly in need of a lamp, she will probably be reminded of her promise.

A Watch Is for Use!

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband gave me a diamond wristwatch for my birthday. What I would like to know is on what occasions is it suitable for me to wear it. My husband would like me to wear it all the time, while I feel that perhaps it is intended only for evening clothes, which unfortunately I seldom wear.

Answer: Your husband is right. In other words, you wear it exactly as you would wear one without diamonds.

Remembering the Maid

Dear Mrs. Post: Every few week ends my son goes to see his girl in another city and always stays at her parents' home. Several times he has taken her mother flowers. But he has never given anything to their maid. Should he do this every time, just occasionally, or never?

Have you thought about the little details of the wedding, such as pictures of the bride, the wedding cake, and who makes the toast to the couple? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but leaflet E-2 will be helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Electrol Head at Luncheon

Electrol, Inc., at present employs about 850 persons and has a weekly payroll of more than $60,000, Benjamin N. Ashton, president, reported at an informal luncheon attended by directors of the Chamber of Commerce at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Monday.

The firm, largest single employer within the city limits, has a four million dollar investment in machines and tools, Ashton said, and its yearly payroll totals well over $3 million.

The luncheon was a part of the Kingston Chamber's program to recognize established industries and focus attention on their importance to Kingston. Adrian Kaplan, Chamber of Commerce president, presided.

As a result of Ashton's brief talk and the discussion which followed, the board members made plans to visit the Electrol plant on Grand street on Monday afternoon, March 9.

In a discussion of the present community effort to bring about industrial expansion, Ashton stated he would welcome increased employment especially in the skilled machine or metal trades because more employment means a larger pool of skilled help, which indirectly aids all industry.

Village Buys Its Streets

Elmira, N. Y. (AP) — The village of Elmira Heights got control of its own village streets for the first time since its incorporation in 1896. The village paid $450 for the 23 miles of streets to the Elmira Industrial Association which had held title to the streets since they opened up the area as a residential subdivision 57 years ago. Under the old arrangement between the village and the association, the village maintained the streets but could not close or narrow them and any abandoned streets reverted to the association.

DuMond Will Speak At 50th Anniversary Of Ulster Grange 969

C. CHESTER DuMOND

Ulster Grange 969 will observe its 50th anniversary at a dinner on Friday at 6 p. m. in the Grange hall, Ulster Park. C. Chester DuMond, commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets, and a member of Ulster Grange, will be the guest speaker.

To mark the anniversary, too, Ulster County Pomona Grange, will hold its quarterly meeting in the afternoon and evening at Ulster Grange. A large number of those attending will wear costumes appropriate to the 1903 era. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Among the Grange officials, also honored guests, expected to be present are Vernon A. Barnhart, deputy state master and William T. Hookey, Pomona master.

The organization of Ulster Grange took place at the close of a two-day Farmers Institute held in the Odd Fellows Hall, now the Grange hall, in Ulster Park, on March 5 and 6, 1903. The institute was attended by 150 farmers, and was conducted by George A. Smith of the Geneva Agricultural Experiment Station.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Smith asked if a Grange existed in the area and upon being answered in the negative, expressed regret, saying, "the Grange is one of the most efficient agencies for the promotion and advancement among farmers."

An account of the organization was given in the Kingston Freeman on March 7, 1903 and read in part, "after closing the Institute on March 6, Mr. Vail deputy of Orange and Ulster counties, of Milton, an organizer of Husbandry, explained the aims of that order and organized Ulster Grange 969, the 11th Grange in the county. Edgar Terpenning was elected Master.

The Freeman story continued, "as the charter members are composed of substantial and public spirited citizens, its success is assured." Herbert Schultz, Union Center, is the only living charter member. He will be the guest of honor at the dinner on Friday.

Final plans for the celebration will be made tonight at a regular meeting of Ulster Grange in Ulster Park. Clintondale and Plattekill Granges will present the program.

DuMond Will Speak At 50th Anniversary Of Ulster Grange 969

C. CHESTER DuMOND

Ulster Grange 969 will observe its 50th anniversary at a dinner on Friday at 6 p. m. in the Grange hall, Ulster Park. C. Chester DuMond, commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets, and a member of Ulster Grange, will be the guest speaker.

To mark the anniversary, too, Ulster County Pomona Grange, will hold its quarterly meeting in the afternoon and evening at Ulster Grange. A large number of those attending will wear costumes appropriate to the 1903 era. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Among the Grange officials, also honored guests, expected to be present are Vernon A. Barnhart, deputy state master and William T. Hookey, Pomona master.

The organization of Ulster Grange took place at the close of a two-day Farmers Institute held in the Odd Fellows Hall, now the Grange hall, in Ulster Park, on March 5 and 6, 1903. The institute was attended by 150 farmers, and was conducted by George A. Smith of the Geneva Agricultural Experiment Station.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Smith asked if a Grange existed in the area and upon being answered in the negative, expressed regret, saying, "the Grange is one of the most efficient agencies for the promotion and advancement among farmers."

An account of the organization was given in the Kingston Freeman on March 7, 1903 and read in part, "after closing the Institute on March 6, Mr. Vail deputy of Orange and Ulster counties, of Milton, an organizer of Husbandry, explained the aims of that order and organized Ulster Grange 969, the 11th Grange in the county. Edgar Terpenning was elected Master.

The Freeman story continued, "as the charter members are composed of substantial and public spirited citizens, its success is assured." Herbert Schultz, Union Center, is the only living charter member. He will be the guest of honor at the dinner on Friday.

Final plans for the celebration will be made tonight at a regular meeting of Ulster Grange in Ulster Park. Clintondale and Plattekill Granges will present the program.

Asks Grace in Restaurants

Mamaroneck, March 4 (AP) — A Mamaroneck minister says he is disturbed by what he calls the failure of most restaurant diners to say grace before their meals. Yesterday the Rev. William R. Fairman, a Lutheran pastor, started out to do something about it. He announced that 30 restaurants in this New York suburb had agreed to distribute cards containing the proper prayers for Protestant, Catholic and Jewish diners. He said future plans call for the printing of the prayers on menus. The Rev. Mr. Fairman said the cards were the result of conferences he had with leaders of other religious denominations and with members of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Lakers and Knicks May Be Opponents

By the Associated Press

The Minneapolis Lakers and New York Knickerbockers, finalists in the 1952 NBA playoffs, may meet again in the playoffs this year.

The Lakers whipped the Fort Wayne Pistons, 86-68 and the Knicks crushed the Rochester Royals, 109-88, in two important games last night, while the New Yorkers were winning, the Milwaukee Hawks dumped the Syracuse Nationals, 75-70.

The results left the Lakers five and a half games ahead of the runner-up Royals in the Western Division. The Knicks have a two and a half game advantage over second place Syracuse in the eastern sector.

Last season the Lakers edged the Knicks in the final playoffs, four games to three.

The Boston Celtics kept alive their titular hopes in the eastern circuit with a 95-94 overtime verdict over the Baltimore Bullets. The Indianapolis Olympians dealt the Philadelphia Warriors a 90-73 defeat. That was the Warriors' 52nd defeat this season and made them the losingest team in NBA history.

Maroon Jayvees Trip Monticello To Close Season With 17-1 Mark

Coach Jack Gilligan's Kingston High School Jayvee basketball squad put the finishing touches to a successful season by scoring a 51 to 39 victory over Monticello Tuesday night at municipal auditorium.

Coach Gilligan threw 14 of his players into last night's skirmish which was only close after the first period of action.

The Maroon yearlings, giving great promise to future Coach G. Warren Kias' team, forged ahead to a 47-23 margin with 10 points in the third period.

Coach Gilligan made wholesale changes in his lineup in the fourth period with the entire reserve squad seeing action. Only Tom Fleming remained from the starting five.

Fleming and Jack Houghtaling were the scoring leaders for Kingston with 16 points apiece. Trachtenburgh and Sturges paced Monticello with 18 and 12 in that order.

Sportscasters Deny Hubbell's Charge

New York, March 4 (AP)—Mel Allen and Al Helfer, two of the country's top baseball broadcasters, took issue today with Carl Hubbell's observation that radio and television announcers are responsible for the lack of good young pitchers.

In an interview Monday, Hubbell said that overzealous broadcasters have made the youngsters of today "pitch crazy," and that they have the false impression that "they must have a variety of pitches to make the grade in professional baseball." He added that this situation was caused by the announcers continually attaching technical names to pitches.

"I've discussed this subject many times with Hub," said Allen, voice of the New York Yankees and broadcaster of many world series and all-star contests.

Imitation Harmful

"We agreed that many young pitching hopefuls try to imitate their big league counterparts and thereby ruin their arms because they haven't the physical equipment to throw such an assortment of stuff.

"However, we don't tell the youngsters to try these curves, knucklers, sliders and screwballs on their favorite catchers. On the contrary. Many times I remind Little Leaguers and sandlotters not to throw these types of pitches until they are old enough, strong enough and have mastered the control of their fast ball and curve."

Helfer, Mutual's Game of the Day radio broadcaster, also agreed that youngsters try to use too many types of pitches too early, but asks: "Why blame the sportcasters?"

Sticks to Obvious

"In all of my broadcasts I try to stick to the obvious. I seldom call a pitch by its given name—such as slider, knuckler, etc. I do call a change of pace slowball or a real fast ball. They're easily noticeable. The rest of the tosses I refer to as 'breaking stuff.'"

"The only thing we can be accused of doing," claimed Helfer, "is being over-enthusiastic at a dramatic moment of an important game. But never overzealous and never do we call imaginary pitches as Hub charged."

The sportcasters and the southpaw, now director of the Giants' farm system, are in accord on one big point. Young pitchers should not try to imitate big league hurlers who have toiled many years to reach the majors.

Track Like Saratoga

Bayard, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Harness racing opens tonight at Ponce De Leon Raceway, the nation's newest track, built in 45 days and patterned after famed Saratoga, N. Y. Favorite in the feature race here tonight is Ford Motors First, black gelding six years old trained and driven by Jack Beltz. This sleek pacer, a consistent winner at Roosevelt and Yonkers Raceways last year, is 2-1 in the morning line. Golden Chief, a speedy seven-year-old owned by Adolph Golden of Coschocton, O., is second choice at 7-2.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Thirty-five-year-old Allie Reynolds said today he will retire when his days as a starting pitcher are over—but that he has another two good years left.

"I'll be a starter when I finish," he said. "I'll go as far as I can as a starter, and I'll know when I can't start I won't be able to relieve, either. I think I have a couple of good years left in me. I feel fine. I'm possibly the strongest pitcher around today. I know I throw harder than the rest of them."

Vero Beach, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Chuck Dressen manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today was convinced either his pitchers are behind schedule or his hitters ahead.

His regulars finished on the short end of a 13-11 count in a six inning intrasquad game yesterday and blew a 7-0 first inning lead.

"Either my hitters are good or my pitchers aren't so hot," he observed after the game.

Picone, Gomez Missing

Phoenix, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Cuban Catcher Rafael Noble was on hand when the New York Giants began their workout today but the whereabouts of pitchers Mario Picone and Ruben Gomez were a mystery.

Noble said he knew Gomez headed for his Brooklyn home and Picone for Puerto Rico when the final series in Cuba ended, but that he didn't know if they ever arrived.

Club officials said they had expected the two pitchers to arrive with Noble.

Bradenton, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Young pitchers due to be farmed out for more seasoning were nominated by Manager Charlie Grimm to share mound duties today in the Boston Braves first intra-squad game of the young spring training season.

Rookies to Get Chance

Sarasota, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau, seeking to bolster his woefully-weak Boston Red Sox pitching staff, plans to give young hurlers plenty of opportunity to make the grade.

Boudreau said yesterday that 'four or five spots are open on our pitching staff" and he plans to use young newcomers in early exhibition starting with the Sox first intra-squad game of the training season tomorrow.

IBM Plans New Club In Sands Point Area

New York, March 4 (AP) — A country club for all New York employes of International Business Machines Corp. will be set up at the former estate of Solomon Guggenheim at Sands Point.

IBM announced yesterday the purchase of the Nassau county, Long Island Estate for use as an employe country club such as the company has already set up at Endicott and Poughkeepsie and Toronto, Canada.

The Guggenheim estate includes 206 acres, a brick residence two and one-third stories high, a nine-hole golf course and two tennis courts. The purchase price was not disclosed.

IBM said the golf course and tennis courts are to be made ready for use this spring, and improvements will be made in the house to make it suitable for country club use.

All IBM employes at the company's world headquarters on Madison avenue and in branch offices throughout greater New York will be eligible—with their families—to join the club.

Saratoga Springs, March 4 (AP)—The Saratoga Harness Racing Association said today it had received a near-record total of 2,604 nominations for early closing summer events in Saratoga Raceway.

Racing Secretary Harold Haswell said the nominations, involving 662 horses and 393 owners, were the second largest entry in the track's history.

The nominations are for 79 features valued at $211,200, distributed over all 66 nights of the June 15-Aug. 29 meeting.

Dark Signs Two-Year Pact For $32,500 to End Siege

(By The Associated Press)

It took a long time for Alvin Dark and the New York Giants to get together on contract terms. And it probably will take the rest of the spring training season for Manager Leo Durocher to decide where the 30-year-infielder will play this year.

Dark finally agreed to sign a Giant contract yesterday. A telephone conversation with President Horace Stoneham rang the bell for a two-year pact calling for an estimated $32,500 per season. Alvin is the first Giant player since Walker Cooper in 1946 to receive a two-year contract.

Job Is Question

With rookie Daryl Spencer, up from Minneapolis, being tabbed as the regular shortstop, Dark is expected to be tried out at second base in the early exhibition games. If the experiment fails, Alvin will be given a chance at the third base job.

Dark, who batted .301 in 1952 and fielded .965 at shortstop appeared to be heading for an extended holdout siege earlier this week but Stoneham, who it is believed upped his original figure, indicated everything worked out well.

"There were no hard feelings on either side," he said. "And I think you can safely say both sides are satisfied with the final arrangement."

Kiner Still Out

Elsewhere, Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh's home run slugger, remained at his Palm Springs, Calif., home and his absence from the Pirates' Havana quarters is causing no end of anguish to President John Galbreath.

"With Kiner, baseball should come first," Galbreath said yesterday. "He should be thinking about the other members of the squad instead of his sideline occupations." The husky outfielder owns a gift shop in Palm Springs.

At Tucson, General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians reported Pitcher Early Wynn and Outfielder Larry Doby would come to camp shortly to discuss salary. Both spent the first week of training at home.

Current guesses are that Doby is shooting for $35,000 and Wynn for $40,000. Neither Wynn nor Doby will be able to work out with the Indians until their pay dispute is settled.

Hounds Vanish in Fog

Markfield, England, March 4 (AP)—A band of foxhunters were out in Britains' heaviest March fog today but their pack of dogs—not Reynard—was the quarry. The 37 hounds, hot on the scent, outran their mounted masters yesterday and vanished into the fog. Leading the search for the dog, the hunt's master, H. B. Parry, called in all "unprecedented." "We have never lost the pack before," he declared.

KHS Defeats Monticello, 72-59, to Finish Season in Second Place

Maroons Meet Nott Terrace In Sectionals Here Friday

Jumping off to an early lead of 17 to 9 after the first period of play, Kingston High School went on to register an easy 72 to 59 victory over Monticello in the DUSO League finale Tuesday night at municipal auditorium.

The victory clinched second place honors for the Maroons who wound up the regular season play with a record of 13 wins and five setbacks.

Meanwhile, attention is now being focused on the annual sectional tournament which opens at the auditorium Friday night.

Kingston will meet Nott Terrace of Schenectady in the first game scheduled for 8 o'clock. A preliminary attraction will feature the MJM All Stars and the KHS Jayvee Reserves at 6:30 p. m.

The tournament will continue Saturday night at the auditorium with Newburgh Free Academy, 1952-53 DUSO League champs, engaging Troy High School. This game also is set for 8 p. m.

Brodhead Hits 22

Skip Brodhead and Bill DuBois were the big siege guns in Kingston's 72-59 triumph last night.

Brodhead, continuing his fine play, led the Maroons with 22 points on eight fields and six charity stripe conversions. DuBois fired home nine fields and added two foul shots for his even 20.

Gold and Ringle led Monticello with 23 and 20 in that order.

Kingston upped its margin to 43-24 with a 26-point splurge in the second quarter while the Monties hit for 15 points.

The Maroons' scoring spurt fell down in the third canto to nine markers while Monticello scored 12 to make it a 52-36 game going into the final quarter.

Monticello again outscored Kingston by 23-20 but the locals' triumphed going away.

Lakers and Knicks May Be Opponents

By the Associated Press

The Minneapolis Lakers and New York Knickerbockers, finalists in the 1952 NBA playoffs, may meet again in the playoffs this year.

The Lakers whipped the Fort Wayne Pistons, 86-68 and the Knicks crushed the Rochester Royals, 109-88, in two important games last night, while the New Yorkers were winning, the Milwaukee Hawks dumped the Syracuse Nationals, 75-70.

The results left the Lakers five and a half games ahead of the runner-up Royals in the Western Division. The Knicks have a two and a half game advantage over second place Syracuse in the eastern sector.

Last season the Lakers edged the Knicks in the final playoffs, four games to three.

The Boston Celtics kept alive their titular hopes in the eastern circuit with a 95-94 overtime verdict over the Baltimore Bullets. The Indianapolis Olympians dealt the Philadelphia Warriors a 90-73 defeat. That was the Warriors' 52nd defeat this season and made them the losingest team in NBA history.

Maroon Jayvees Trip Monticello To Close Season With 17-1 Mark

Coach Jack Gilligan's Kingston High School Jayvee basketball squad put the finishing touches to a successful season by scoring a 51 to 39 victory over Monticello Tuesday night at municipal auditorium.

For the local squad it was victory No. 17 of the year—a nifty mark with only one blemish—a one-point loss to Newburgh earlier in the year.

Coach Gilligan threw 14 of his players into last night's skirmish which was only close after the first period of action.

Kingston took a slim 11-10 lead in the first canto but branched out to lead Monticello by 28-17 at halftime.

The Maroon yearlings, giving great promise to future Coach G. Warren Kias' team, forged ahead to a 47-23 margin with 10 points in the third period.

Coach Gilligan made wholesale changes in his lineup in the fourth period with the entire reserve squad seeing action. Only Tom Fleming remained from the starting five.

Sportscasters Deny Hubbell's Charge

New York, March 4 (AP)—Mel Allen and Al Helfer, two of the country's top baseball broadcasters, took issue today with Carl Hubbell's observation that radio and television announcers are responsible for the lack of good young pitchers.

In an interview Monday, Hubbell said that overzealous broadcasters have made the youngsters of today "pitch crazy," and that they have the false impression that "they must have a variety of pitches to make the grade in professional baseball." He added that this situation was caused by the announcers continually attaching technical names to pitches.

"I've discussed this subject many times with Hub," said Allen, voice of the New York Yankees and broadcaster of many world series and all-star contests.

Imitation Harmful

"We agreed that many young pitching hopefuls try to imitate their big league counterparts and thereby ruin their arms because they haven't the physical equipment to throw such an assortment of stuff.

"However, we don't tell the youngsters to try these curves, knuckers, sliders and screwballs on their favorite catchers. On the contrary. Many times I remind Little Leaguers and sandlotters not to throw these types of pitches until they are old enough, strong enough and have mastered the control of their fast ball and curve."

Helfer, Mutual's Game of the Day radio broadcaster, also agreed that youngsters try to use too many types of pitches too early, but asks: "Why blame the sportcasters?"

Sticks to Obvious

"In all of my broadcasts I try to stick to the obvious. I seldom call a pitch by its given name—such as slider, knuckler, etc. I do call a change of pace slowball or a real fast ball. They're easily noticeable. The rest of the tosses I refer to as 'breaking stuff.'"

"The only thing we can be accused of doing," claimed Helfer, "is being over-enthusiastic at a dramatic moment of an important game. But never overzealous and never do we call imaginary pitches as Hub charged."

The sportcasters and the southpaw, now director of the Giants' farm system, are in accord on one big point. Young pitchers should not try to imitate big league hurlers who have toiled many years to reach the majors.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Thirty-five-year-old Allie Reynolds said today he will retire when his days as a starting pitcher are over—but that he has another two good years left.

"I'll be a starter when I finish," he said. "I'll go as far as I can as a starter, and I'll know when I can't start I won't be able to relieve, either. I think I have a couple of good years left in me. I feel fine. I'm possibly the strongest pitcher around today. I know I throw harder than the rest of them."

Outfielder Bill Renna and shortstop Jim Brideweser, both of whom had been delayed by illness, joined the team.

Vero Beach, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Chuck Dressen manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today was convinced either his pitchers are behind schedule or his hitters ahead.

His regulars finished on the short end of a 13-11 count in a six inning intrasquad game yesterday and blew a 7-0 first inning lead.

"Either my hitters are good or my pitchers aren't so hot," he observed after the game.

Picone, Gomez Missing

Phoenix, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Cuban Catcher Rafael Noble was on hand when the New York Giants began their workout today but the whereabouts of pitchers Mario Picone and Ruben Gomez were a mystery.

Noble said he knew Gomez headed for his Brooklyn home and Picone for Puerto Rico when the final series in Cuba ended, but that he didn't know if they ever arrived.

Club officials said they had expected the two pitchers to arrive with Noble.

Bradenton, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Young pitchers due to be farmed out for more seasoning were nominated by Manager Charlie Grimm to share mound duties today in the Boston Braves first intra-squad game of the young spring training season.

Rookies to Get Chance

Sarasota, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau, seeking to bolster his woefully-weak Boston Red Sox pitching staff, plans to give young hurlers plenty of opportunity to make the grade.

Boudreau said yesterday that 'four or five spots are open on our pitching staff" and he plans to use young newcomers in early exhibition starting with the Sox first intra-squad game of the training season tomorrow.

IBM Plans New Club In Sands Point Area

New York, March 4 (AP) — A country club for all New York employes of International Business Machines Corp. will be set up at the former estate of Solomon Guggenheim at Sands Point.

IBM announced yesterday the purchase of the Nassau county, Long Island Estate for use as an employe country club such as the company has already set up at Endicott and Poughkeepsie and Toronto, Canada.

The Guggenheim estate includes 206 acres, a brick residence two and one-third stories high, a nine-hole golf course and two tennis courts. The purchase price was not disclosed.

IBM said the golf course and tennis courts are to be made ready for use this spring, and improvements will be made in the house to make it suitable for country club use.

All IBM employes at the company's world headquarters on Madison avenue and in branch offices throughout greater New York will be eligible—with their families—to join the club.

Dark Signs Two-Year Pact For $32,500 to End Siege

(By The Associated Press)

It took a long time for Alvin Dark and the New York Giants to get together on contract terms. And it probably will take the rest of the spring training season for Manager Leo Durocher to decide where the 30-year-infielder will play this year.

Dark finally agreed to sign a Giant contract yesterday. A telephone conversation with President Horace Stoneham rang the bell for a two-year pact calling for an estimated $32,500 per season. Alvin is the first Giant player since Walker Cooper in 1946 to receive a two-year contract.

With rookie Daryl Spencer, up from Minneapolis, being tabbed as the regular shortstop, Dark is expected to be tried out at second base in the early exhibition games. If the experiment fails, Alvin will be given a chance at the third base job.

Dark, who batted .301 in 1952 and fielded .965 at shortstop appeared to be heading for an extended holdout siege earlier this week but Stoneham, who it is believed upped his original figure, indicated everything worked out well.

"There were no hard feelings on either side," he said. "And I think you can safely say both sides are satisfied with the final arrangement."

Kiner Still Out

Elsewhere, Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh's home run slugger, remained at his Palm Springs, Calif., home and his absence from the Pirates' Havana quarters is causing no end of anguish to President John Galbreath.

"With Kiner, baseball should come first," Galbreath said yesterday. "He should be thinking about the other members of the squad instead of his sideline occupations." The husky outfielder owns a gift shop in Palm Springs.

At Tucson, General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians reported Pitcher Early Wynn and Outfielder Larry Doby would come to camp shortly to discuss salary. Both spent the first week of training at home.

Current guesses are that Doby is shooting for $35,000 and Wynn for $40,000. Neither Wynn nor Doby will be able to work out with the Indians until their pay dispute is settled.

Hounds Vanish in Fog

Markfield, England, March 4 (AP)—A band of foxhunters were out in Britains' heaviest March fog today but their pack of dogs—not Reynard—was the quarry. The 37 hounds, hot on the scent, outran their mounted masters yesterday and vanished into the fog. Leading the search for the dog, the hunt's master, H. B. Parry, called in all "unprecedented." "We have never lost the pack before," he declared.

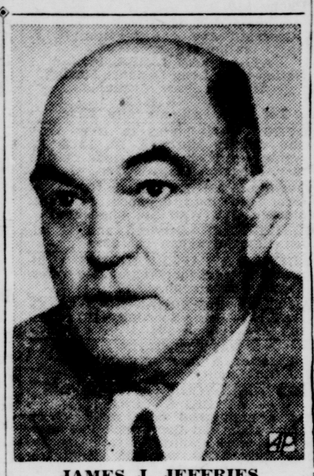
Waterboys, Shaws Meet in Junior Finals Tonight

Heart Attack Fatal To Big Jim Jeffries



JAMES J. JEFFRIES

Burbank, Calif., March 4 (AP)—James J. Jeffries — Big Jim, the boilermaker boy who became one of the world's greatest heavyweight boxing champions — was counted out for the first and only time last night. Death came to the former titleholder at the age of 77.

Jeffries, a semi-invalid since a stroke seven years ago, died in his home in bed after asking his niece and housekeeper, Mrs. Lillian Bull, to call a doctor.

Big Jim, the idol of the turn of the century, had been feeling rather well in recent weeks, even up to attending a social function or two, Mrs. Bull said. But he died before the doctor arrived.

Dr. William M. Nethery said a heart attack (coronary thrombosis) was the cause.

Never Knocked Out

Never knocked out in his 19-year ring career. Jeffries reigned as king of the heavyweights from 1899 to 1905, when he retired undefeated. But, coaxed out of retirement, he met Jack Johnson, his successor as champion, in 1910. Johnson won on a technical knockout in the 15th round to close the career of Jeffries, then 35.

But in his prime, many veteran fight fans aver, there was no one like Big Jim for speed and hitting power. Carrying 220 pounds on a 6-foot, 1½ inch frame at his peak. Jeffries twice knocked out Jim Corbett and the great Australian, Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons.

His victories over Sailor Tom Sharkey, Gus Ruhlin and Joe Choynski rank among the fiercest battles in the days when prizefights were long and brutal. His overall record: 23 fights, 11 knockouts, 7 decisions, 2 draws, 2 exhibitions—and the one loss to Johnson.

Jeffries won the heavyweight title by knocking out Fitzsimmons in the 11th round at Coney Island, June 9, 1899. Five months later he successfully defended his crown with a 25-round decision over Sharkey.

Repeated Kayoes

In 1900, he met Corbett, the former titleholder and greatest boxer of the era. Corbett was far ahead on points in the 23rd round when Big Jim caught him with a deadly left and Corbett was counted out.

Jeffries repeated his knockouts of Fitzsimmons and Corbett in 1902 matches, speeding the endings this time in the 8th and 10th rounds, respectively.

Running out of competition, Jeffries retired in 1905 and built the San Fernando valley ranch home where he died. But with the rise of Johnson, friends prevailed on Jeffries to try his disastrous comeback.

Maxim Odds Drop For Nardico Bout

Miami, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Joey Maxim, making his first start since he lost the light heavyweight title to Archie Moore, is a shrinking 7 to 5 favorite over rugged Danny Nardico of Tampa tonight in a 10-rounder at Miami Stadium.

Surprising support for Nardico, who made a big hit locally by knocking Jake La Motta off his feet for the first time, Dec. 31, brought the price down from an early 2 to 1 close to even money. Nardico might even enter the ring the favorite if the current trend continues.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p. m. (EST) will be beamed across the nation on a television network (CBS). In case of rain, TV fans will see a stand-by bout from Washington, D. C. between middleweights Willie Troy and Holly Mims. The Maxim-Nardico show then would be postponed till Wednesday, March 11.

However, the Miami weather bureau predicts continued fair and warm weather for the outdoor fight.

Both Score Close Wins on Tuesday In Semi-Finals

The Waterboys and Shaw's Grocery moved into the Shaughnessy finals of the Recreation Junior Division Basketball League Tuesday night with victories over St. Peter's and Esposito Cleaners.

Shaws will meet the Waterboys tonight at 8 o'clock in the first of a best two out of three series. A consolation game between St. Peter's and Espositos will be played at 7:15 o'clock at George Washington School gym.

The Waterboys, by virtue of the fine backboard work of Jack Redmond and Jerry Trout, were in front all the way in their 42 to 38 victory. Billy Guldy was instrumental in the Waterboy victory with his set shots from the side which opened the Saints' defense and let Jack Redmond get inside.

Fouls Decide Game

The second game was a thrilling affair all the way which was won by Shaws with only 10 seconds left to play by the score of 30 to 29.

Espositos, trailing throughout, took over the lead by one point with 30 seconds left and attempted to freeze the ball with only 15 seconds remaining. Ed Lindhurst broke up the freeze by stealing the ball and dribbled the length of the court for a shot. Red Amato made a desperate try to stop the shot but in so doing fouled Lindhurst. Lindhurst proceeded to dump in both free thows to give Shaws the lead.

Ron Kozlowski was high for the losers with 13 points. Lindhurst, Dick Richards and Lionel Kogan each had eight for Shaws.

Lima, Peru, March 4 (AP)—Nine persons were killed and 31 injured when a truck plunged down a 62-foot embankment near Arequipa, a dispatch to the newspaper El Comercio said today. The truck, carrrying hides, was loaded with 40 Indians atop the cargo.

Three Die in Fire

Sandy Creek, March 4 (AP)—Three persons, including a teenaged brother and sister, perished early today when flames destroyed their home. The dead were Gordon Johnson, 15, his sister, Charlotte, 13, and Kenneth Scoville. The three were asleep upstairs in the home of the children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson. Scoville was a roomer. Douglas Johnson, a brother of the two children, and a companion, Arnold Caufield of Sandy Creek, escaped by jumping from an upstairs window. Caufield was spending the night with the Johnson family. The parents were sleeping downstairs and escaped in their nightclothes.

Blind Swimming Teacher

Houston (AP)—While her seeing-eye dog sits for three hours by the side of the YWCA swimming pool, Miss Betty Elber spends two evenings a week teaching others how to swim. Betty was blind when she learned to swim three years ago under a Red Cross program. Now she's taking the instructor's course because "I want to learn to teach others so that I can instruct blind persons like myself," she says. "I know their problems of learning by ear and instinct rather than by sight."

To House French

Koblenz, Germany (AP)—The old German town of Koblenz is to become one of the biggest French garrison towns in Europe, a "Little France" on the Rhine. Military barracks, housing projects for dependents, hospitals and storehouses are being built at an estimated cost of $23,800,000. French authorities hope that the project will be finished by spring.

Waterboys, Shaws Meet in Junior Finals Tonight

Heart Attack Fatal To Big Jim Jeffries

Burbank, Calif., March 4 (AP)—James J. Jeffries — Big Jim, the boilermaker boy who became one of the world's greatest heavyweight boxing champions — was counted out for the first and only time last night. Death came to the former titleholder at the age of 77.

Jeffries, a semi-invalid since a stroke seven years ago, died in his home in bed after asking his niece and housekeeper, Mrs. Lillian Bull, to call a doctor.

Big Jim, the idol of the turn of the century, had been feeling rather well in recent weeks, even up to attending a social function or two, Mrs. Bull said. But he died before the doctor arrived.

Dr. William M. Nethery said a heart attack (coronary thrombosis) was the cause.

JAMES J. JEFFRIES

Never Knocked Out

Never knocked out in his 19-year ring career. Jeffries reigned as king of the heavyweights from 1899 to 1905, when he retired undefeated. But, coaxed out of retirement, he met Jack Johnson, his successor as champion, in 1910. Johnson won on a technical knockout in the 15th round to close the career of Jeffries, then 35.

But in his prime, many veteran fight fans aver, there was no one like Big Jim for speed and hitting power. Carrying 220 pounds on a 6-foot, 1½ inch frame at his peak. Jeffries twice knocked out Jim Corbett and the great Australian, Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons.

His victories over Sailor Tom Sharkey, Gus Ruhlin and Joe Choynski rank among the fiercest battles in the days when prizefights were long and brutal. His overall record: 23 fights, 11 knockouts, 7 decisions, 2 draws, 2 exhibitions—and the one loss to Johnson.

Jeffries won the heavyweight title by knocking out Fitzsimmons in the 11th round at Coney Island, June 9, 1899. Five months later he successfully defended his crown with a 25-round decision over Sharkey.

Repeated Kayoes

In 1900, he met Corbett, the former titleholder and greatest boxer of the era. Corbett was far ahead on points in the 23rd round when Big Jim caught him with a deadly left and Corbett was counted out.

Jeffries repeated his knockouts of Fitzsimmons and Corbett in 1902 matches, speeding the endings this time in the 8th and 10th rounds, respectively.

Running out of competition, Jeffries retired in 1905 and built the San Fernando valley ranch home where he died. But with the rise of Johnson, friends prevailed on Jeffries to try his disastrous comeback.

Maxim Odds Drop For Nardico Bout

Miami, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Joey Maxim, making his first start since he lost the light heavyweight title to Archie Moore, is a shrinking 7 to 5 favorite over rugged Danny Nardico of Tampa tonight in a 10-rounder at Miami Stadium.

Surprising support for Nardico, who made a big hit locally by knocking Jake La Motta off his feet for the first time, Dec. 31, brought the price down from an early 2 to 1 close to even money. Nardico might even enter the ring the favorite if the current trend continues.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p. m. (EST) will be beamed across the nation on a television network (CBS). In case of rain, TV fans will see a stand-by bout from Washington, D. C. between middleweights Willie Troy and Holly Mins. The Maxim-Nardico show then would be postponed till Wednesday, March 11.

However, the Miami weather bureau predicts continued fair and warm weather for the outdoor fight.

Both Score Close Wins on Tuesday In Semi-Finals

The Waterboys and Shaw's Grocery moved into the Shaughnessy finals of the Recreation Junior Division Basketball League Tuesday night with victories over St. Peter's and Esposito Cleaners.

Shaws will meet the Waterboys tonight at 8 o'clock in the first of a best two out of three series. A consolation game between St. Peter's and Espositos will be played at 7:15 o'clock at George Washington School gym.

The Waterboys, by virtue of the fine backboard work of Jack Redmond and Jerry Trout, were in front all the way in their 42 to 38 victory. Billy Guldy was instrumental in the Waterboy victory with his set shots from the side which opened the Saints' defense and let Jack Redmond get inside.

Fouls Decide Game

The second game was a thrilling affair all the way which was won by Shaws with only 10 seconds left to play by the score of 30 to 29.

Espositos, trailing throughout, took over the lead by one point with 30 seconds left and attempted to freeze the ball with only 15 seconds remaining. Ed Lindhurst broke up the freeze by stealing the ball and dribbled the length of the court for a shot. Red Amato made a desperate try to stop the shot but in so doing fouled Lindhurst. Lindhurst proceeded to dump in both free thows to give Shaws the lead.

Espositos tried one more shot but it hit the rim and bounced off.

Schantz Improves

Philip Schantz, Highland, assistant Ulster county commissioner of public welfare who was stricken with a heart attack Sunday, was reported to be resting comfortably today at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie. His condition was reported to be improved and he is no longer in oxygen. At the present he is unable to have visitors.

Nine Persons Killed

Lima, Peru, March 4 (AP)—Nine persons were killed and 31 injured when a truck plunged down a 62-foot embankment near Arequipa, a dispatch to the newspaper El Comercio said today. The truck, carrrying hides, was loaded with 40 Indians atop the cargo.

Three Die in Fire

Sandy Creek, March 4 (AP)—Three persons, including a teenaged brother and sister, perished early today when flames destroyed their home. The dead were Gordon Johnson, 15, his sister, Charlotte, 13, and Kenneth Scoville. The three were asleep upstairs in the home of the children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson. Scoville was a roomer. Douglas Johnson, a brother of the two children, and a companion, Arnold Caufield of Sandy Creek, escaped by jumping from an upstairs window. Caufield was spending the night with the Johnson family. The parents were sleeping downstairs and escaped in their nightclothes.

Blind Swimming Teacher

Houston (AP)—While her seeingeye dog sits for three hours by the side of the YWCA swimming pool, Miss Betty Elber spends two evenings a week teaching others how to swim. Betty was blind when she learned to swim three years ago under a Red Cross program. Now she's taking the instructor's course because "I want to learn to teach others so that I can instruct blind persons like myself," she says. "I know their problems of learning by ear and instinct rather than by sight."

To House French

Koblenz, Germany (AP)—The old German town of Koblenz is to become one of the biggest French garrison towns in Europe, a "Little France" on the Rhine. Military barracks, housing projects for dependents, hospitals and storehouses are being built at an estimated cost of $23,800,000. French authorities hope that the project will be finished by spring.

Three Cited . . .

tov—one of the few remaining "old Bolsheviks," the men who brought the Soviet Union into being in the 1917 October revolution. A former foreign minister and onetime prime minister, he is 62. Born in the Viatsk province of central European Russia to a fairly well-to-do family named Scriabin, he joined the Bolshevik party while still in high school and by the age of 19 had been arrested by the czar's secret police five times. With the success of the revolution, Molotov rose by steady steps to a seat on the governing Politburo. From 1930 to 1941, when Stalin was running things from the officially obscure post of chairman of the Communist party's Central Committee, Molotov fronted as chairman of the Council of People's Commissars—a post equivalent to premier. Stalin took over the job. In 1936, Molotov helped draft a new constitution for the Soviet Union and in 1939 he replaced the western-minded Maxim Litvinoff as foreign minister. During Warld War 2 he took over reorganization of Russia's tank production, in addition to running the foreign office. He was released as foreign minister in 1949 to free him for the task of aiding Stalin in the enermous task of governing the USSR.

Court of Honor Is Held to Note 179 1952 Advancements

To publicly recognize the 179 advancements made by the Boy Scouts of the Kingston District in 1952, a District Court of Honor was held Tuesday evening at the county court house in Kingston Ralph D. Harper, district advancement chairman, presided. Council President Raymond S. Quackenbush of Saugerties welcomed the assembled Scouts, Cubs and parents and brought the greetings and congratulations of Rip Van Winkle Council to the Kingston District.

Neighborhood Commissioner Robert C. Tremper congratulated those Boy Scouts who graduated from Cub Scouting to Boy Scout troops during the year. District Commissioner Frank Bourke commended the 102 Scouts who advanced to second class rank during the year. The chairman of the council advancement committee, William W. Brady, Jr., announced that 38 Scouts and Explorers had earned the first class rank and complimented them on their work.

Marine Gives Star Rank

Sgt. Charles Awkerman of the U. S. Marines then called the following Scouts to the stage for their star rank presentation:

Alfred Long, Frederick Carr, Myron Epstein, Richard Mendel and Stanley Parnett, Troop 3; Earl T. Schoonmaker, Troop 8; Robert Coale, Richard Gendreau, Peter Cain, and Robert Campbell, Troop 9; Harry Reppert, Edmond Drake, Richard Spoth and Leith Harrison, Troop 11; Fred Burnett, Scott Comstock, John Douglas, Irving Zwilling, William Van Vliet, Paul D. Celuch and Leslie Comstock, Troop 12.

DA Presents Explorers

District Attorney Howard C. St. John presented the following Scouts and Explorers with their life rank:

James Brice, Troop 2; Frederick Carr, Troop 3; Edwin Strong, Robert Shellenberger and Earl T. Schoonmaker, Troop 8; Richard Gendreau, Troop 9; Richard Constant, Troop 11; Scott Comstock, John Douglas and Irving Zwilling, Troop 12; Robert Coutant, Troop 26.

The council president, Raymond S. Quackenbush then gave the Eagle charge to the following: James Brice, Troop 2; Frederick Carr, Michael Davis, Troop 3; Robert Shellenberger, Troop 8; Richard Constant and Carl Constant, Troop 11; Scott Comstock, John Douglas and Irving Zwilling, Troop 12; Robert Coutant and Robert Sanford, Troop 26.

Dennis Congratulates

Scout Executive George V. Dennis, representing the National Council, congratulated all who had received rank advancements and the district officers for doing such splendid work.

Eagle Scout Joseph Thurin of Troop 3, sponsored by St. Joseph's Church of Kingston, then led the assembly in the Scout oath for the closing ceremony.

watch over the people of that vast country and bring them, in His wisdom, opportunity to live their lives in a world where all men and women and children dwell in peace and comradeship."

James C. Hagerty, the White House press secretary, told newsmen Eisenhower met with Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and discussed with him the international situation as it might be affected by Stalin's collapse.

Eisenhower also kept in touch with Secretary of State Dulles on the situation and conferred with him personally before entering a meeting of the National Security Council.

President Decorates General

President Eisenhower grins broadly, March 3, as he pins a third oak leaf cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal on the tunic of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, in a White House ceremony. The brief ceremony followed a conference of military leaders with the Chief Executive.

Union's Council of Ministers — both headed by Stalin—said his absence from duty would be "more or less prolonged." But they called his withdrawal temporary, and urged the 200 million people of the Soviet Union to "display the greatest unity and * * * redouble their energies in building communism."

Has Led Since 1924

Stalin has led the government since 1924 when V. I. Lenin died. He led the Soviet people to victory in World War 2, and his illness comes only a few weeks after the 10th anniversary of the battle of Stalingrad, turning point of that war for the Soviet forces.

The paralytic stroke Stalin suffered evidently is similar to that which killed Franklin D. Roosevelt, his wartime ally. President Roosevelt, who met with Stalin at Tehran and Yalta in wartime conferences, died at 63 in 1945.

The announcement of Stalin's illness was made over the Moscow radio as many Muscovites were going to work. The announcers gave the words slowly, and the bulletin was read over and over again.

Crowds gathered in front of newspapers placarded on billboards. There was a look of concern on many faces. Pravda, official organ of the Communist Party, headlined the news with the black letters — "Government communique." It was sub-headed: "Of the illness of the chairman of the Council of Ministers of the USSR and secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, Comrad Josef Vissarionovich Stalin."

New Health Minister

The official announcement disclosed that the Soviet Union has a new health minister — A. F. Tretyakov. It said the treatment was being conducted under direction of Tretyakov and I. Kuperin, chief of the Medical Sanitary Board of the Kremlin. The previous minister of health was Y. I. Smirnov.

Tass, the official news agency, telephoned foreign correspondents a brief bulletin about 7:20 a. m. The AP correspondents in Moscow called their London and Paris offices immediately, with the calls going through quickly. These calls were placed from the central telegraph office. The lines had to be held while censors cleared news copy for transmission abroad. All copy was subject to censorship.

Soon the news of Stalin's illness blanketed the Soviet capital with a pall of grief. On the streets people huddled into little groups. As they moved on, only one sentence was heard — over and over again—"Stalin is ill. Stalin is ill. Stalin is ill."

At the office of Tass, the girl who handed out the agency's bulletins to foreign correspondents was red-eyed from weeping.

Stalin had been active within the last few weeks.

On Jan. 12 he appeared at the Bolshoi Theater for a concert by a group of visiting Polish artists. The next day he received the vice president of the Soviet-Chinese Friendship Society and the president of the Chinese Academy of Science.

On Jan. 21 he attended the memorial ceremonies for Nikolai Lenin at the Bolshoi. On Feb. 7 he received the new Argentine ambassador, Dr. Leopoldo Bravo, and 10 days later the new Indian ambassdor, K. P. S. Menon, and Dr. Saifuddin Kitchlu, chairman of the All-India Peace Council.

Both Bravo and Menon reported that he looked "strong and vigorous" for a man of 73 years.

A new proposal on parking meter advertising was referred to the laws and rules committee. Irwin Displays of 689 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, said it would guarantee the city $12,500 "over a period of five years." This would be on a basis of $1,500 on the first year and $500 additional for each succeeding year until the five-year limit.

Notice of suit on two previously filed claims were referred to the laws and rules committee. One by Tibbie Tempelaar, of Port Ewen, is for $35,000 for damages and injuries claimed after the stalling of the claimant's car in the Broadway underpass last Oct. 2 when it was flooded. Howard St. John is the attorney. The notice said the claimant was forced to close her business as a result of the mishap.

Another claim by Anna Jablonski and Martha Withowski, of 187 Murray street, for $595, also previously filed, is for damages to property caused by an overflowing city sewer on last Sept. 1. They are represented by the law firm of Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman.

Pearl M. Simmons, of 55 Gill street, filed a claim for $5,000 and her husband, George, filed for $500 as the result of a fall on allegedly broken pavement near 40 Yoemans street last Dec. 2. Mrs. Simmons claims injuries and her husband filed for loss of her services.

Attorney Joseph Avis filed the Simmons claim. F. Decker, of 47 Harding avenue, filed a bill for $5, which, he said, was a charge for towing him out of water on Harding avenue.

A special assessment in the amount of $29,997.92 for sewer work and pavement in Browning Terrace was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Substitute Adopted

A substitute amendment regulating parking on Abeel street was adopted in place of one passed by the council at its February meeting. The former measure prohibited parking on the north side of Abeel street from Broadway to Wurts street. The new one asks installation of three parking meters on the north side of Abeel street from Broadway to Post street and prohibits parking on the same side from Post to Wurts street.

A letter from Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk announcing the reappointment of Lawrence J. MacAvery, of 52 Linderman avenue as chairman of the Kingston Planning Commission, was read and filed.

Urges Draft Extension

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet urged today that the two-year draft period be extended to 30 or 36 months. He told the House Armed Services Committee that this extension is needed "to better prepare our boys to live" in combat by giving them more and better training.

field and pursue the enemy and polish them off."

Van Fleet's appearance before the House group was the first of a series of meetings planned for him with House and Senate members particularly concerned with the military services and foreign affairs.

Van Fleet arrived for the hearing wearing an "Eisenhower jacket" with only a few of his many decorations displayed.

Chairman Short opened the hearing by praising Van Fleet as a "good soldier, tried in combat, one of the great generals of our times."

Short went on to say he had asked for the public hearing in order that the American people might have the fullest information, to which they were entitled.

The chairman added: "I hope you can give us the answer to the $64 dollar question: How can we end the stalemate in Korea?"

Short asserted that the United States cannot continue the Korean war "forever."

Pays High Tribute

Van Fleet replied that first he would like to pay tribute to the men of the Eighth Army—"the greatest generation of Americans we have ever produced."

Then Van Fleet, whose son is listed as missing in action in Korea, dropped his voice to say: "Your sons, our sons—God bless them."

The general went on then to describe the Korean war situation as a "sitdown of our own choice."

He said the Eighth Army had "complete supremacy" over the Communists in three vital areas, listing them as:

1—Quality of troops.
2—Firepower of weapons.
3—Mobility and flexibility to meet new situations.

"My personal opinion is that we can win in Korea," Van Fleet said. "It must be a military victory."

Asked by Vinson, senior Democrat on the committee, whether the 8th Army was in a position now to launch a successful offensive, the general said he would have to answer in executive session.

Vinson wanted to know whether more men and materials would not be needed for an offensive now.

Van Fleet said he and other Korean commanders always would "like to have more of the means of war."

Rep. Arends (R.-Ill.), assistant House floor leader, asked point blank whether the war would have been won if United Nations forces had followed up their advantages in 1951.

"I would like to think so," Van Fleet replied. "I was the man in charge at the time."

One of the questions that has troubled Congress members has been repeated reports of shortages of various kinds of supplies, including ammunition.

Van Fleet told them there are no "shortages of a serious nature."

"It is my considered opinion that the Eighth Army is the best equipped, best fed, best clothed, best housed and cared for army we have ever produced," he said.

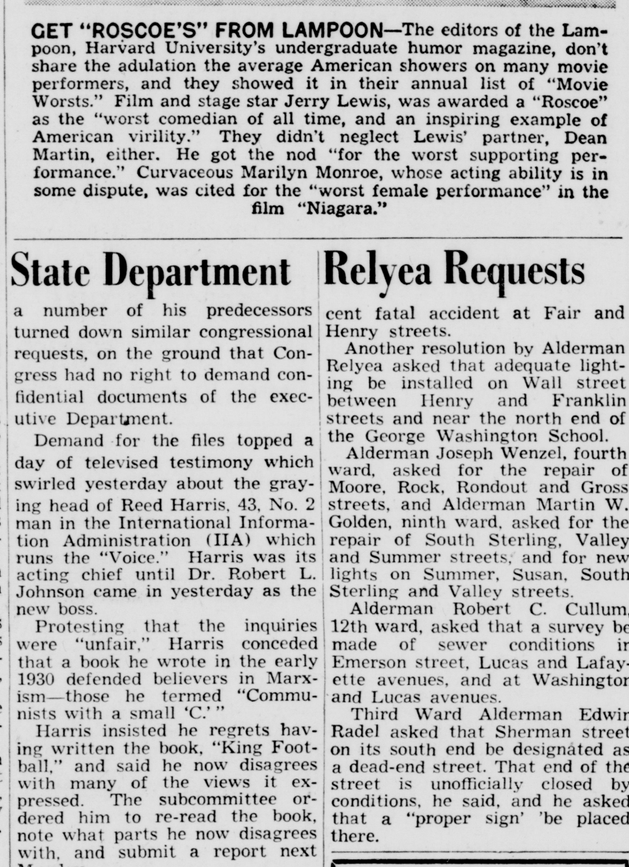
Settlement Is Reached In Perry-Lemister Case

Tuesday, following the noon recess, settlement was reached in the action for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien brought in Supreme court by Joseph Perry against Nicholas Lemister. Harry Gold was attorney of record for plaintiff and James C. Plunket for defendant.

Justice Elsworth then recessed court until today when it was announced a negligence action brought by Veronica Quick against Jack Siegel would be ready. Cashin & Ewig for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Guard Goes to Kerhonkson

The 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, with headquarters at the state armory, Kingston, will send elements from the Kingston units to "invade" the village of Kerhonkson tonight and participate in a special demonstration of National Guard military equipment and operations as a part of the Kerhonkson High School Parent-Teachers Association meeting at 8 o'clock.



GET "ROSCOE'S" FROM LAMPOON—The editors of the Lampoon, Harvard University's undergraduate humor magazine, don't share the adulation the average American showers on many movie performers, and they showed it in their annual list of "Movie Worsts." Film and stage star Jerry Lewis, was awarded a "Roscoe" as the "worst comedian of all time, and an inspiring example of American virility." They didn't neglect Lewis' partner, Dean Martin, either. He got the nod "for the worst supporting performance." Curvaceous Marilyn Monroe, whose acting ability is in some dispute, was cited for the "worst female performance" in the film "Niagara."

State Department

a number of his predecessors turned down similar congressional requests, on the ground that Congress had no right to demand confidential documents of the executive Department.

Demand for the files topped a day of televised testimony which swirled yesterday about the graying head of Reed Harris, 43, No. 2 man in the International Information Administration (IIA) which runs the "Voice." Harris was its acting chief until Dr. Robert L. Johnson came in yesterday as the new boss.

Protesting that the inquiries were "unfair," Harris conceded that a book he wrote in the early 1930 defended believers in Marxism—those he termed "Communists with a small 'C.'"

Harris insisted he regrets having written the book, "King Football," and said he now disagrees with many of the views it expressed. The subcommittee ordered him to re-read the book, note what parts he now disagrees with, and submit a report next Monday.

It was Harris who touched off the move to seize loyalty files of Theodore Kaghan and Edmund Schechter. He testified he had authorization to testify that they "have been investigated * * * and have full clearance as to loyalty and security."

That statement seemed to contradict testimony given the subcommittee in New York Saturday by James F. Thompson, another "Voice" official. Thompson said he "assumed" the two men had been rejected for "Voice" jobs for security reasons. Both Kaghan and Schechter, now working for the U. S. high commissioner for Germany, denied that they had been.

workers. These two men were at work on the sidewlk cutting away a grating on the building.

Fire officials said the blaze started in a corner of the building where rubber matting and hair was stored to be used in making chair seats.

Jacob Grumet, fire commissioner, said rescue operations were hampered because steel bars in frameworks over the windows prevented firemen from gaining entry. Grumet said that he did not like such windows but that they were approved in the building codes.

Relyea Requests

cent fatal accident at Fair and Henry streets.

Another resolution by Alderman Relyea asked that adequate lighting be installed on Wall street between Henry and Franklin streets and near the north end of the George Washington School.

Alderman Joseph Wenzel, fourth ward, asked for the repair of Moore, Rock, Rondout and Gross streets, and Alderman Martin W. Golden, ninth ward, asked for the repair of South Sterling, Valley and Summer streets, and for new lights on Summer, Susan, South Sterling and Valley streets.

Alderman Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward, asked that a survey be made of sewer conditions in Emerson street, Lucas and Lafayette avenues, and at Washington and Lucas avenues.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel asked that Sherman street on its south end be designated as a dead-end street. That end of the street is unofficially closed by conditions, he said, and he asked that a "proper sign' 'be placed there.

tov—one of the few remaining "old Bolsheviks," the men who brought the Soviet Union into being in the 1917 October revolution. A former foreign minister and onetime prime minister, he is 62. Born in the Viatsk province of central European Russia to a fairly well-to-do family named Scriabin, he joined the Bolshevik party while still in high school and by the age of 19 had been arrested by the czar's secret police five times. With the success of the revolution, Molotov rose by steady steps to a seat on the governing Politburo. From 1930 to 1941, when Stalin was running things from the officially obscure post of chairman of the Communist party's Central Committee, Molotov fronted as chairman of the Council of People's Commissars—a post equivalent to premier. Stalin took over the job. In 1936, Molotov helped draft a new constitution for the Soviet Union and in 1939 he replaced the western-minded Maxim Litvinoff as foreign minister. During Warld War 2 he took over reorganization of Russia's tank production, in addition to running the foreign office. He was released as foreign minister in 1949 to free him for the task of aiding Stalin in the enermous task of governing the USSR.

Rep. Arends (R.-Ill.), assistant House floor leader, asked point blank whether the war would have been won if United Nations forces had followed up their advantages in 1951.

"I would like to think so," Van Fleet replied. "I was the man in charge at the time."

One of the questions that has troubled Congress members has been repeated reports of shortages of various kinds of supplies, including ammunition.

Van Fleet told them there are no "shortages of a serious nature."

"It is my considered opinion that the Eighth Army is the best equipped, best fed, best clothed, best housed and cared for army we have ever produced," he said.

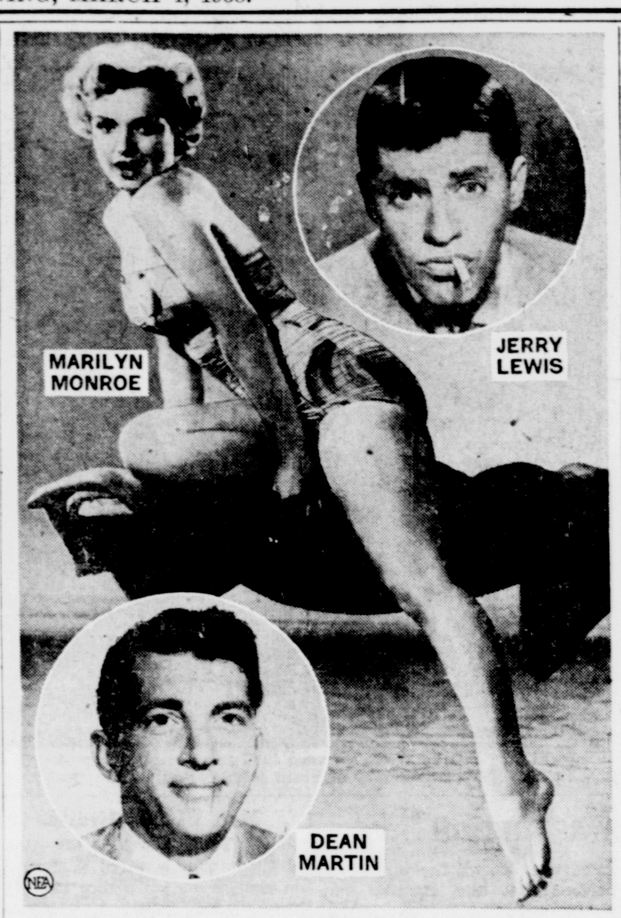
Settlement Is Reached In Perry-Lemister Case

Tuesday, following the noon recess, settlement was reached in the action for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien brought in Supreme court by Joseph Perry against Nicholas Lemister. Harry Gold was attorney of record for plaintiff and James C. Plunket for defendant.

Justice Elsworth then recessed court until today when it was announced a negligence action brought by Veronica Quick against Jack Siegel would be ready. Cashin & Ewig for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Guard Goes to Kerhonkson

The 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, with headquarters at the state armory, Kingston, will send elements from the Kingston units to "invade" the village of Kerhonkson tonight and participate in a special demonstration of National Guard military equipment and operations as a part of the Kerhonkson High School Parent-Teachers Association meeting at 8 o'clock.



GET "ROSCOE'S" FROM LAMPOON—The editors of the Lampoon, Harvard University's undergraduate humor magazine, don't share the adulation the average American showers on many movie performers, and they showed it in their annual list of "Movie Worsts." Film and stage star Jerry Lewis, was awarded a "Roscoe" as the "worst comedian of all time, and an inspiring example of American virility." They didn't neglect Lewis' partner, Dean Martin, either. He got the nod "for the worst supporting performance." Curvaceous Marilyn Monroe, whose acting ability is in some dispute, was cited for the "worst female performance" in the film "Niagara."

State Department

a number of his predecessors turned down similar congressional requests, on the ground that Congress had no right to demand confidential documents of the executive Department.

Demand for the files topped a day of televised testimony which swirled yesterday about the graying head of Reed Harris, 43, No. 2 man in the International Information Administration (IIA) which runs the "Voice." Harris was its acting chief until Dr. Robert L. Johnson came in yesterday as the new boss.

Protesting that the inquiries were "unfair," Harris conceded that a book he wrote in the early 1930 defended believers in Marxism—those he termed "Communists with a small 'C.'"

Harris insisted he regrets having written the book, "King Football," and said he now disagrees with many of the views it expressed. The subcommittee ordered him to re-read the book, note what parts he now disagrees with, and submit a report next Monday.

It was Harris who touched off the move to seize loyalty files of Theodore Kaghan and Edmund Schechter. He testified he had authorization to testify that they "have been investigated * * * and have full clearance as to loyalty and security."

That statement seemed to contradict testimony given the subcommittee in New York Saturday by James F. Thompson, another "Voice" official. Thompson said he "assumed" the two men had been rejected for "Voice" jobs for security reasons. Both Kaghan and Schechter, now working for the U. S. high commissioner for Germany, denied that they had been.

3 Investigations

workers. These two men were at work on the sidewlk cutting away a grating on the building.

Fire officials said the blaze started in a corner of the building where rubber matting and hair was stored to be used in making chair seats.

Jacob Grumet, fire commissioner, said rescue operations were hampered because steel bars in frameworks over the windows prevented firemen from gaining entry. Grumet said that he did not like such windows but that they were approved in the building codes.

Relyea Requests

cent fatal accident at Fair and Henry streets.

Another resolution by Alderman Relyea asked that adequate lighting be installed on Wall street between Henry and Franklin streets and near the north end of the George Washington School.

Alderman Joseph Wenzel, fourth ward, asked for the repair of Moore, Rock, Rondout and Gross streets, and Alderman Martin W. Golden, ninth ward, asked for the repair of South Sterling, Valley and Summer streets, and for new lights on Summer, Susan, South Sterling and Valley streets.

Alderman Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward, asked that a survey be made of sewer conditions in Emerson street, Lucas and Lafayette avenues, and at Washington and Lucas avenues.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel asked that Sherman street on its south end be designated as a dead-end street. That end of the street is unofficially closed by conditions, he said, and he asked that a "proper sign' 'be placed there.

The high temperature yesterday was 39 at 1 p. m., and the low was 17 at 6 a. m. Mean temperature 28 and normal 31. Humidity 99 at 11 p. m., and 51 at 1 p. m. Barometric pressure 30 at 10 a. m., and 29.7 at 11 p. m. Rainfall .25 of an inch and wind from the southwest at eight miles an hour.

Mrs. Luce Becomes Ambassador

Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce is sworn in Tuesday as Ambassador to Italy by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, in the office of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, center.

Washington Sees

icans who knows the top Soviet personalities, the Russian language and history, and Soviet ideology. His presence in Moscow, at such a portentous time, might be of tremendous value to this government.

The U. S. Embassy in Moscow has been headed by a subordinate official, Joseph D. Beam, since the Russians expelled the former ambassador, George F. Kennan.

The news that Stalin had been stricken hit State Department officials early today with evident surprise. There apparently had been no rumors forwarded from Moscow to capitals this side of the iron curtain.

As to the policy effects of a new hand on the Kremlin helm, there are two obvious extreme alternatives:

1. Russia under new leadership might give up its theories of worldwide Communist domination and subside into its own sphere, thereby opening the way for true cold war settlements.

2. A new man might be far more reckless than Stalin has ever been in seeking to realize the ambition of world rule and might greatly increase the dangers of a third world war.

One certain conclusion in the light of this kind of speculation is that Stalin's incapacity and the increased possibility of his death usher in a period of uncertainty in world affairs such as have accompanied no other postwar change of government leadership—even that of the recent switch from Democratic to Republican administrations in this country.

It may be months or even longer before the meaning becomes clear, regardless of the way in which the succession is decided.

Man Pleads Guilty

New York, March 4 (AP)—One of three men arrested yesterday on charges of ambulance chasing has pleaded guilty. The others have entered innocent pleas. The three—Joseph Marrell, 46, of West Hempstead, and Julius Wolff, 57, and Samuel Abrams, 69, both of Manhattan—were arrested yesterday. They were charged with violating a state law making it a misdemeanor to solicit business for an attorney. Wolff later entered his guilty plea before Special Sessions Justice Matthew J. Troy, who released him in bail pending sentence March 18.

'Good Night' Reported

London, March 4 (AP) — Queen Mary, sick in bed for 10 days with a recurrence of gastric trouble, spent a "fairly good night," informants said today. They described her general condition, however, as unchanged. The 85-year-old Queen Grandmother dealt with her correspondence as usual this morning, helped by members of her household.

See Camp Movies

Colored moving pictures taken at Camp Wendy in Wallkill, the Ulster County Girl Scouts summer camp, were shown at the luncheon meeting of the Kingston Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday. A commentary on the film was given by Mrs. Max Chirlin, who was accompanied by Mrs. Richard Holbrook, both of Kingston.
